CREDIT FIRMS TO BE BASIS OF DROUGHT HELP

Decision on Farm Relief Comes Out of Parley at White House.

STATE, LOCAL BODIES WILL HANDLE LOANS

Bankers to Hear Reports at Meeting Today With Hyde.

SECRETARY OUTLINES PROGRESS THUS FAR

Subcommittee of Three to Work With Several U. S. Agencies.

(Associated Press.)

Out of the White House drought relief conference yesterday came the decision to make State or local credit corporations the basis of the financial machinery to aid the hard-pressed farmers.

Similar agencies were employed when President Hoover, as Secretary of Commerce, directed flood relief work in 1927. The credit corporations will act as the intermediary between the farmers on the one hand and the intermediate credit banks on the other. The maximum rate of interest to the farmers for money borrowed is expected to be 6 per cent.

Secretary Hyde, chairman of the national drought committee, said after the meeting yesterday the establishment of the credit corporations was decided upon but other details were yet to be worked out.

Three Bankers Named.

A subcommittee of three bankers, Melvin A. Traylor, of Chicago; Nicholas Dosker, of Louisville, and Morton Prentis, of Baltimore, was named yesterday after the conference to outline recommendations on what the States and Government could do to aid the drought sections. They will work with Agriculture Department officials and other Government agencies. The Agriculture Department, the Federal Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board and the Federal Reserve Board also were asked to report just what they can do toward relief.

The conference considered the problem of relief largely local, with conditions differing in various sections, and with this in mind, it was felt the problem could best be dealt with by the local agencies.

Hyde Reports on Relief.

The reports and recommendations of the subcommittee and Government agencies were to be placed before a meeting of the entire group of bankers to be held with Chairman Hyde this morning.

A coordinating committee of department experts was named to unify the work of the various agencies.

Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker, presided at the conference. Representatives of more than a dozen State relief committees were present, as were members of the Federal Reserve Board, Farm Loan Board and Farm Board.

Outlining relief work already done, Secretary Hyde said that up to Monday night 665 carloads, principally of feed, had been shipped to drought States by the railroads at emergency rates. Of this about 28 per cent went to West Virginia, 25 per cent to Virginia, 23 per cent into Maryland, 16 per cent into Ohio and 8 per cent into other States.

Banker Members' Names.

The banker members of State drought relief committees include:

Alabama—Clyde Hendricks, president of the Tennessee Valley Bank.

Arkansas—J. H. Stanley, president of the State Bankers Association.

Indiana—Elmer W. Stout, president of the Indiana State Bankers Association.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: A study of the economic development of this country, of its capacity to produce and consume, of its manufactures and its markets, reveals that general business never has found any saturation point.

We have been considering the present as a time of depression. Yet it is now reported that within the past few months $125,000,000 worth of miniature golf outfits have been put into operation. During the worse period of 1921 it was the newly perfected radio that caught the public fancy, with sales soon reaching hundreds of millions of dollars. Before that came the motion picture which now sells over 100,000,000 admission tickets each week. Meantime the automobile and aircraft industries have been created.

Twenty-five years ago only a few people were engaged in these enterprises. The number now runs into the millions. We can see in these new occupations the natural remedy for labor temporarily displaced by machinery. What course our great financial and scientific resources will take in the next era of development we do not know. But all past experience teaches that it will be an important advance in the economic welfare of the Nation.

PLAYGROUND TITLE WON BY ROSEDALE

Johnson-Powell Is Beaten by Point as Last Event Decides Meet.

POST TROPHY TO WINNER

More than 2,000 municipal playground boys representing 52 playgrounds, ran and jumped to the delight of as many spectators in the annual playground field and track meet yesterday on the Plaza field. Rosedale Playground, with 26 points, won The Washington Post cup, emblematic of the city championship, by the narrowest of margins. Powell was a close second with 25, and Columbia Heights was right on the heels of the leaders with 24. Twenty-eight teams figured in the point scoring.

Each year playground officials think that the peak has been reached in the number of entries and broken records, but year after year more boys vie for The Post cup and medals and additional records are smashed. Yesterday was no exception. Six marks were lowered and two were equaled in the gripping competition that was so close throughout that the team champion was not known until next to the last event, the 100-pound relay, in which Rosedale took second to gain the three points needed to overhaul the leading Johnson squad.

Probably the most sensational effort in the record-breaking class was the mark set by J. Sweeney, of Johnson, who leaped 20 feet 3¼ inches in the broad jump to break the record established by Cross, of Iowa Avenue, in 1928, of 18 feet 10 inches. Three of the broken records were credited to Johnson boys.

C. Osias, son of the resident commissioner of the Philippines, another Johnson lad, threw his body 5 feet 6 inches in the air to break the 115-pound high-jump record, set by T. Meehan, of Plaza, in 1928. Johnson ended its valiant struggle for the championship and its record breaking in the unlimited 440-yard relay, which mark was broken by one-fifth of a second. The Johnson boys on the record-breaking team were Lynch, Fernandez, Schultz and Admire succeeding as record holders Green, Quinn, McVean and Langley, of Garfield, who established the old mark in 1929.

W. Blackwell, of Wheatley, traveled the 60 yards in the 85-pound class 60-yard dash in 7 2-5 seconds to tie the mark set by J. Osborne, of Bloom-

WILEY POST WINNER OF DERBY TO CHICAGO

Mrs. Omlie Is First to Land in Race From Capital to Air Contests.

NANCY HOPKINS IN REAR

Curtiss-Reynolds Airport, Chicago, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Slower than he had anticipated, but 30 minutes faster than his closest rival, Wiley Post, of Oklahoma City, led three other fliers into Chicago today in the nonstop derby from Los Angeles. He made the trip in 9 hours 9 minutes and 4 seconds.

Lee Schoenhair, of Arkon, Ohio, was second, with elapsed time of 9:39:17; William Brock, of Detroit, third, with 9:55:57, and Roscoe Turner, Los Angeles, fourth, with 9:58:41.

Post flew a Lockheed-Wasp monoplane. He can not be declared the winner of the $7,500 prize until Art Goebel, winner of the 1927 Dole flight to Hawaii, races or declares himself out of the contest. Goebel said he would not take off from Los Angeles until he learned the time of the other contestants. Under rules governing the contest he may make the flight any time up until September 1.

Post abandoned his original plan of refuelling here and continuing on to New York in an effort to beat the transcontinental record of Capt. Frank Hawks.

If he had arived within eight hours, Post planned to refuel in the air here, drop one of two barographs to establish his standing i nthe derby, and continue on to New York. He puffed wearily when he stepped from his plane and appeared bewildered as two race attendants escorted him across the field on their arms.

Both he and Schoenhair said they flew through good weather until they neared the scene of the national races, where ground haze made visibility poor. Neither had sight of the other during their flight and they entered the air port from opposite sides.

Brock carried Robert Brown as a passenger on his ship and the latter was burned about the arms when he attempted to repair the plane's radio set.

Alex Magyar and George Enders, Hungarian fliers, who took off from Los Angeles at 5:32 a. m., Pacific time, announcing they would fly to the races with the nonstop derbyists,

MACKMEN WIN OVER NATS BY HOMERS, 10-9

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26.—It was a heart-breaker which the Nationals lost here this afternoon, Manager Johnson having no pitchers who could stop the heavy Mackian clouters. The final score was 10 to 9, with the league leaders staging a four-run rally in the eighth to pack away the verdict, which increased their margin over the Nationals to seven and one-half games, but still leaves the Washington hopefuls three and a half games ahead of the third-place Yankees, who drew another open date.

Shortly after play started it was an odds-on bet that the Nationals would cop, for they were in front, 5 to 0, 6 to 3, and 9 to 4, only to have their moundsmen weaken at critical stages, the big cave-in coming in the eighth.

Summa Starts Rally.

Here's the story of this round: Summa opened with a single and Cochrane scored him with a homer over the right-field wall. Simmons followed with another home run, his thirty-first of the season, whereupon Ad Liska went up in the air. When three successive balls had been called on Foxx, Lloyd Brown relieved him and finished walking Foxx. Miller bounded a lucky single over Bluege's head and Dykes advanced both runners on a sacrifice. Boley was intentionally walked and Finch Hitter Eric McNair then lashed out a sacrifice fly to score Foxx with what proved to be the decisive run, for Lefty Grove, beaten by the Nationals yesterday, set the Nationals down in order in their ninth.

Eight pitchers were used during the game George Earnshaw and Irving Hadley starting, with Liska and Brown relieving for the Nats and with Ed Rommell, Jack Quinn and Bill Shores having toiled for the Macks before Grove appeared upon the scene.

Nats Outhit Foes.

As to hits, the Nats had a slight margin numerically, with Sam Rice getting four of the sixteen accred-

FOREIGN BAR MEMBERS ARE FETED IN CITY

Lawyers of Four Nations Drink Rulers' Toast With Water.

DINNER CULMINATES VISITORS' BUSY DAY

Group Is Entertained by President Hoover at Garden Party.

GREETINGS BROUGHT BY FRENCH, BRITISH

Secretary Stimson to Hold Receptilon Today for Capital Guests.

Toasts in water and music were exchanged last night as 50 lawyers and jurists from Great Britain, France and Canada were entertained at a dinner in the Pan-American Union, given by the American Bar Association and the Attorney General.

The dinner culminated a day of entertainment for the visitors, who will be in the Capital through tomorrow. Following the greeting given them at the Union Station, the lawyers were tendered a reception at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in the palm garden of the Mayflower Hotel, a luncheon as guests of the Lawyers Club at the Chevy Chase Club, and a garden party by the President and Mrs. Hoover on the White House grounds.

A jovial and friendly note characterized the rather brief addresses and exchanges of greeting at the Pan-American Union. Thomas D. Thatcher, solicitor general of the United States, in the absence of Attorney General Mitchell, acted as toastmaster.

Rulers Toasted With Water.

At his suggestion the entire assemblage of approximately 500 persons arose and drank a toast in water to the King of England, the President of France and the President of the United States.

Col. J. Miller Kenyon, president of the District Bar Association, then welcomed the foreign guests. He reviewed the visit of members of the American Bar Association to England and the continent and recalled some of the most outstanding receptions given for the Americans.

The principal address was delivered by Sir William Jowitt, Attorney General of Great Britain, in behalf of the British delegation. As a preface to his speech he led a toast for Mr. Thatcher.

President Is Praised.

An especial compliment was paid by the speaker to President Hoover for his role "as the Chief Citizen of this Republic" in enacting the London Naval Treaty.

Great Britain and the United States "look forward to the same ideals," he said, and have much in common.

Turning at the conclusion of his address to a recent work by Justice Holmes, entitled, "The Path of the Law," Sir William defended the profession of law for its conservatism and pointed out that lawyers may become a powerful instrument in aiding the approach of world peace. In this he entreated the cooperation of the American bar.

FORMER PRESIDENT'S DEATH RUMORED IN PERU; U. S. PAIR HELD

American Doctor Called Aboard Ship to Aid Stricken Leguia.

PERSISTENT REPORTS LACK CONFIRMATION

Insurgent Chief in South to Confer in Lima With Head of Junta.

THREAT OF CIVIL WAR IS BELIEVED AVERTED

State Department Orders Embassy to Help Gain Citizens' Release.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Rumors that former President Augusto B. Leguia of Peru was dead or dying aboard the cruiser Almirante Grau in Callao echoed through Lima late today.

They arose as soon as it had been learned that the former president was suffering from an attack of uremia, of which he has long been a victim. One of his aids who accompanied him aboard the cruiser, where he is a prisoner of the junta, came ashore this morning and summoned an American doctor named McCormack.

The rumor that the former president was dead persistently circulated but all efforts to verify it proved useless. Dr. McCormack was quoted in some quarters as saying that Mr. Leguia was ill but not gravely so.

At a local bank this afternoon, however, the Associated Press correspondent heard that when Dr. McCormack landed from he cruiser at 3 p. m. he had told the manager of the bank's Callao office that he expected the former president to die within a few hours.

Civil War Threat Averted.

The threat of a civil war between North and South in Peru, following upon the fall of former President Leguia's administration, was apparently averted today by announcement of impending negotiations for peace and a united government.

Lieu. Col. Luis Sanchez Cerro, leader of the insurgents at Arequipa in the south, is expected in Lima tomorrow to negotiate in person with Gen. Manuel Maria Ponce, head of the military junta in Lima.

With former President Augusto B. Leguia a prisoner of the junta, and facing trial for the acts of his eleven years' presidency, leaders in the north and in the south have apparently reached a working basis for agreement. Announcement of Col. Sanchez Cerro's visit, officially made this afternoon, is the first definite sign of such progress.

The southern leader, who at Arequipa last Friday began the revolt that ended in downfall of Leguia, has hitherto expressed distrust of the Lima junta.

Manifesto Is Issued.

In a manifesto to his supporters yesterday he said he would not go to Lima because the junta had technically been appointed by Senor Leguia before resigning.

He said also that he had ordered the cruiser Almirante Grau, which Senor Leguia boarded yesterday, to put back to the railhead port of Mollendo, near Arequipa, and to surrender the former president.

To offers of cooperation from the junta he replied by the demand that delegates be sent to Arequipa for a parley.

The military junta in turn sent a wireless sto the cruiser demanding surrender and the return of the former president to Lima for trial. At 4 a. m. today officers of the warship, which put back to Callao harbor, gave up their former leader.

An account of the former president's adventures on board the Almirante Grau was given by one of his former aids.

He said that shortly after the cruiser left it had been reported on Kentucky Census Clerk and Parent Escape Heat as Well.

The coolest and most economical way to spend a Washington summer has been discovered by Miss Edith Doll, a temporary clerk in the Bureau of the Census, and her mother, who have been camping out in their car since they came here from Louisville, Ky., in April.

Each day the daughter would drive to work and her mother would sit in the car outside the building at Sixth and Missouri avenue northwest. At noon the girl joined her mother for lunch, and then returned to work while the older woman continued to wait until 4:30, when they would drive back to their camping spot.

They stayed most of the time at the Tourist Camp. "It was always cool there," Mrs. Fred Doll, the mother, said, "and we never had any

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Achieving an ambition of long standing, Capt. Wolfang Von Gronau landed in the harbor today, completing an eight-day flight from Germany, during which he and his three companions flew over the icy wastes of Iceland and Greenland.

"I can hardly believe it is true," he said. "All my life as a pilot I have dreamed of some time landing in this wonderful harbor. We had rather a struggle with storm and rain and fog over vast icy areas, but we came through all right."

Capt. von Gronau said he had not decided how he and his companions would return, but if they flew home it would not be by the same northern Senator 1,500 Votes Ahead of Nearest Opponent on Early Figures.

GOVERNOR RACE CLOSE

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Close contests developed in South Carolina's emocratic primary today, with the indications tonight that a run-off would be necessary to decide the nominees for the United States Senate and the governorship, in addition to numerous lesser offices.

Senator Cole L. Blease, for 42 years a political figure in South Carolina, took an early lead over the nearest of his two opponents tonight.

With 327 boxes reported unofficially out of 1,528 in the State, Senator Blease had a lead over former Representative James F. Byrnes of slightly more than 2,000 votes. The count stood: Blease, 14,779; Byrnes, 12,489; Leon W. Harris, 5,436.

Political War Rages On Typewriter Front

G. O. P. Denunciation of Democratic "Bedtime Fiddle Faddle" Countered by Statement Poking Fun at Fess' Defense of Hoover Regime.

The big "hamstout" war between the two major political parties, which lately has overshadowed even issues and candidates, raged on yesterday, with typewritten blasts emanating from both camps.

The one loosed by James West, head of the Republican press department, criticized the mode of warfare being pursued by the Democratic press department and charged that its "tireless ballyhoo" was made up of nothing more than "self-serving bedtime tales."

Hardly had it left the mimeograph machine when Charles Michelson, the chief gunner of the Democratic publicity battery, let go a broadside at Senator Simeon D. Fess (Republican), of Ohio, twitting him for his glowing tribute to the "accomplishments" of the Hoover administration and again sounding the cry of the "Hoover panic."

As is the custom, each statement was issued in the name of a member of Congress belonging to party getting out the statement. The Republican statement was sponsored by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, and the Democratic one by Representative Cordell Hull, of Tennessee.

Senator Vandenberg's statement was marked by the same indignant tone that ran through one issued the day before by Representative Will Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the congressional campaign committee. Wood declared that the hiring of Michelson was a "plot" by John J. Raskob to hurt President Hoover.

Senator Vandenberg said he was amazed at the extent to which Jouett Shouse and his tireless Democratic ballyhoo either neglect facts or rely on popular gullibility.

What aroused the Michigan senator was a statement by Shouse that not a step had been taken under the new flexible tariff to investigate rates on various commodities as demanded by Senate resolutions.

"I happen to know at first hand," said Senator Vandenberg, "that furniture manufacturers from Grand Rapids already have been summoned to Washington by the Tariff Commission and already have testified in the investigation ordered by Senator Borah's resolution.

"This is spectacularly prompt action which no doubt also has been taken in respect to other articles. It immediately convicts Mr. Shouse either of error or of misrepresentation.

"When the commission finally reports on the furniture tariff I venture the prophecy it will prove the Smoot-Hawley rate was conservative and below the actual difference in costs of production at home and abroad. Thus another favorite Democratic fraud will expose itself.

"Mr. Shouse and his noisy headquarters have put fiction and fiddle-faddle on a mass production basis.

Couzens, on 58th Birthday, Recalls Change in Beliefs

Senator Says Incident at Ford Company, Where Thousands Were Discharged, Then Drenched, Converted Him to New Principles.

Detroit, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—James Couzens, Michigan's senior senator, reached his fifty-eighth birthday anniversary today and recalled the incident sixteen years ago which he said converted him to the principles which cause his political opponents to call him "radical" and "irresponsible."

The incident occurred when Senator Couzens was a chieftain of industry, long before he became the senator who last winter startled a group of manufacturers by assailing as "careless" and "thoughtless" present employment methods and warned them that unless business does something to stabilize the working man's income, Government will.

"I confess there was a time when I was not so keen about the rights and interests of the working man," Senator Couzens said. "I recall a winter day in 1914, when, with a stroke of the pen, I ordered the discharge of several thousand workers of the Ford Motor Co., of which I was then general manager. I stood in the office window and saw these men milling about outside the gates. It was bitterly cold and under these conditions I saw the hose turned on them.

"I got converted right there. After 48 hours of discussion, Henry Ford agreed to a raise of wages from $2.30 a day to $5, in the hope that such men as we could retain might save something out of the increased wages for any contingency of lay-off in the future. And for that I want to pay my warmest compliments to Mr. Ford."

The reference to Mr. Ford was one of the few Senator Couzens has made publicly in recent years to the man in whose association he rose from a $200-a-month clerkship to immense wealth in sixteen years. It was about a year after the incident related that Senator Couzens left the Ford Company after a disagreement with Mr. Ford. Later he sold his interest in the firm for $30,000,000.

This birthday recalled another when Senator Couzens was 55. On that day he said that "there isn't enough work to keep a senator busy," and that "we (United States senators) are all overpaid, and vacations are too long." The statement created a furore, but Senator Couzens has been in turmoils more often than not, including a long-drawn-out quarrel with Secretary Mellon.

Merchant Near Culpeper Found Mysteriously Slain

Bullet-Riddled Body of 70-Year-Old Business Man Discovered in Store; Had Been Known to Carry Large Sums of Money.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 26.—William H. Strother, 70 years old, proprietor of a small store 10 miles from this place, was found dead near his place of business today with three bullet wounds in his body.

Coroner J. M. Glore, of Madison County, who investigated the case, announced that Strother undoubtedly had been murdered. The aged merchant had the reputation of carrying large sums of money, but no cash was found on his person when his body was discovered. No weapon was found near the scene of the tragedy.

Coroner Glore said that Strother had been dead since Monday morning, perhaps longer. He was last seen alive on Saturday. Strother lived alone. He established his business about a year ago, and at that time came to Culpeper with $3,000 in cash to buy a stock of goods for his store. It was recalled here last night. Since that time Strother was known to carry large sums of money, and frequently exhibited it.

Strother's only known survivor is a son, Lewis Strother, of Washington. The latter left for Culpeper last night to make arrangements for the funeral. Meanwhile, a search is being made for clews that may lead to a solution of the mystery.

Rob Bank of $10,500 With Police Block Away

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The Main Street State Bank was robbed of $10,500 today by a man who escaped in a motor car with a companion before police arrived from the Nineteenth Street Station, a block away, in answer to a burglar alarm.

The robber who entered the bank carried a revolver wrapped in a paper, which he pointed at Edwin J. Mealey, a teller, who was forced to hand over the money in his cage. Hurrying outside, the man jumped into a motor car in which a companion was waiting. They fled south on Main street and outdistanced police cars.

board that the junta in Lima had been overthrown by Communists.

The cruiser's officers, therefore, recognized Mr. Leguia as president, hoisted the presidential pennant and fired a salvo of 21 shots.

Later the story of the Communist rising was denied. The officers then decided to land Leguia at a foreign port, but on receiving a summary order to surrender from the junta they returned to Callao.

U. S. Citizens' Release Sought.

The release of two Americans held by the insurgents in Arequipa was being sought today by the United States Embassy here.

Harold B. Grow, American naval reserve officer and chief of the Peruvian flying forces under the Leguia administration, was captured Sunday morning at Camana.

A commercial pilot named Elmer G. Faucett, of New York, is also being held.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Arequipa dispatches to La Nacion this evening reported that four Peruvian army officers, sent by the military junta in Lima, had arrived at Arequipa today and reached an understanding with Lieut. Col. Luis Sanchez Cerro, chief of the southern insurgents.

According to dispatches, the officers from Lima recognized the Arequipa Junta as the real government of Peru. Col. Sanchez Cerro communicated later by telegraph with the Lima Junta.

The meeting lasted an hour and a half, while the public waited tensely in front of Government House.

Officer Addresses Crowd.

Col. Sanchez Cerro finally came out and addressed the crowd, introducing the officers from Lima as collaborators who recognized the Arequipa Junta.

One of the officers, Maj. Gustavo Jimenez, long a political prisoner under the Leguia regime, then stated that they had come to open direct negotiations and recognize Sanchez Cerro's government. This was confirmed by Col. Roberto Lopez, who hailed the southern leader as his future chief.

(Associated Press.)

Ferdinand L. Mayer, American charge d'affaires at Lima, advised the State Department yesterday he had granted asylum to two daughters of President Leguia and their children in his house.

Alfredo Larrinaga, son-in-law of President Leguia, also sought and was granted asylum in the charge's home.

Consul's Report Received.

Simultaneously, the department heard from Consul William C. Burdett that American ictizens in the Lima-Callao district and their property were not endangered.

The charge's message, which was timed at 4 p. m., Monday, said that a committee consisting of the American charge d'affaires, the papal nuncio, the Chilean Ambassador and the German and Japanese ministers was delcorps to call upon the committee in egated at a meeting of the diplomatic power and request assurances of protection both for foreign nationals, business interests and diplomatic missions.

Ample protection was assured the diplomats by Gen. Ponce, who said he had declared martial law to enforce order.

Embassy Instructed to Act.

(Associated Press.)

The American Embassy at Lima was instructed yesterday by the State Department to take all appropriate measures to bring about the release of Harold B. Grow, lieutenant commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve, who was captured Sunday by Peruvian revolutionists in Camana.

The department has had no further information on another American, Elmer Faucett, of Savona, N. Y., who was reported detained by revolutionists in Arequipa, near Camana. Faucett is the representative of an aviation concern.

The State Department has expressed confidence that both Grow and Faucett, if he is held, would be released. On rceiving official advices yesterday, however, that Grow, a captain in the Peruvian naval forces, had been captured, it communicated with the embassy.

Envoy Advised of Revolution.

Ambassador Manuel de Freyre y Santander yesterday received his first official report on the overthrow of the Leguia government. The military counsel in Lima informed him of appointment of a cabinet headed by Gen. Manuel M. Ponte. No further details of reorganization of the government were received at the Peruvian Embassy.

State Department officials said that the question of recognition by this Government of the military Junta was not expected to arise until after the Junta had made a commitment concerning the future government of the republic it controls. Department officials recalled that after the overthrow of the Hernando Siles regime in Bolivia, Edward Freely, newly appointed American Minister, went to La Paz with credentials in blank, as there was no constitutionally elected president to whom he could be accredited.

Deering to Sail for Post.

Meanwhile this Government continued to accept Eduardo Diez de Medina, Bolivian Minister of the Siles regime, as the accredited envoy from La Paz though the government he came here to represent had been replaced.

It was considered probable that during the interim of reorganization in Peru, no change would be made in plans of Ambassador Fred Morris Deering to sail for his post from New York aboard the steamer Santa Clara, August 29.

Ambassador Deering had previously presented his credentials to former President Leguia. It was unlikely, officials said, that new credentials will be issued him unless this Government is officially invited to recognize a new Peruvian government.

BATTLEFIELD PLAN WILL BE BROADCAST

Fairfax Chamber Program to Have Col. Pearson Talk on Manassas.

MILK DEALERS ARE FINED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 248, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

President Edmund H. Allen of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that the radio program sponsored by the chamber each Wednesday evening over Station WJSV, at Mount Vernon Hills, would include a description of the second battle of Manassas on August 29 and 30, 1862. The program will open at 7:30 tonight. Col. Rufus Pearson, of Washington, one of the directors of the Manassas Battlefield Association, will also speak. Col. Pearson, who was one of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, will outline the plan to make Bull Run battlefield an outstanding memorial park. According to Mr. Allen, the speech of Col. Pearson will be of a nonpartisan nature to interest the descendants of both the Blue and the Gray in the efforts that are being made by the association to make the Manassas battlefield a historic prk.

Besides the drought this summer milk dealers in Fairfax County have run afoul of a law which they say they knew nothing about. Washington milk dealers have sent agents into the county to investigate and seize milk bottles belonging to them. The local dealers did not know of the law against using the bottles that did not belong to them. They have declared that if they had been notified they would have gladly returned them to the company whose name was on the bottle.

Several of the local dealers in Mount Vernon district were summoned to appear before Justice of the Peace Arthur D. Kirby, at Groveton, on warrants sworn out by H. L. Black, of Washington, president of the Green Meadows Dairy. They were F. H. Wilkinson, William Parker & Bro., Courtney Sullivan and Arthur Hewit. Each was fined $5 for the first bottle found and 50 cents for each one thereafter and costs. The cases were settled by having the fines suspended and each paying the costs.

H. B. Derr, Fairfax County agricultural agent, has been notified by former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, chairman of the State Drought Relief Commission, that the reduced freight rates that are now in effect on the railroads for hay, feed and grain to the drought-stricken areas would expire on October 1. Agent Derr says that the United States Department had also notified him previous to this that the rates would expire on October 31 and that permits for the shipments had been signed that will be made after October 1. He has written to the relief commission in regard to their letter believing that the date was a mistake.

The feed dealers in this section of the State must sign a pledge before they can receive their shipments. The pledge reads:

"I hereby certify that the entire reduction in freight rates granted me on the shipments of feed ordered on the certificates of the county agent or other authorized representative of the Department of Agriculture will be passed on to farmers in the drought-stricken area by whom the feed is used. I further agree that should there arise any question as to the use of this feed that I will furnish a complete list of the names of the people to whom this feed is sold."

Accused Wife-Slayer Yields in Baltimore

Cambridge, Md., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Sought for hours by police, firemen and others, Goman Booze, 40, a contractor, who last night, it is charged, shot and killed his estranged wife and another woman, surrendered early today. He had been hiding in a shipyard.

He would say nothing, but neighbors said he and his wife had quarreled over religious matters. While both were members of the Church of God, Booze said his wife was giving too much of her time to the church.

Mrs. Nettie Booze, the wife, was instantly killed, and Mrs. Leon Wilson, 23, with whom she had been living, fatally wounded. Booze, it is alleged, fired four shots from a double-barreled shotgun into the dining room of the Wilson home. His 15-month-old daughter, Norma, was wounded.

WATERWORKS HEAD HINTS AT SABOTAGE

Annapolis Officials Stirred by Tampering Charged to Political Foes.

SUPPLY SURVEY IS MADE

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 26.—Stirred by attempts to cripple equipment at the works of the Annapolis Water Co., located 4 miles south of the city, officials of the company today gave notice that persons trespassing on the property will be prosecuted.

T. Roland Brown, president of the company, and Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, who is a director, are incensed over the matter. The latter expressed belief that the reported acts were committed as a means of embarrassing the Republican administration of the water company's affairs, in view of criticism from certain quarters as to the course directors are pursuing in handling the water shortage situation which has existed for several weeks. The mayor declared that there are evidences that the emergency chlorinator apparatus installed by Dr. Charles F. Caspari, of the State department of health, had been tampered with, as had also the sluice gates.

There is no clew to the culprit or culprits, but from now on the plant will be kept under close scrutiny, the mayor said.

Survey Will Be Made.

Meanwhile the water board has designated Engineer Walter C. Munroe and Dr. Caspari to make a thorough survey of nearby streams to devise the best means of augmenting the supply, in view of the existing shortage. Pumping from other streams still is in progress as an emergency measure, and two other propositions are under consideration. One is the purchase of property of Fred Schoen, where there is an abundant flow of water from streams and springs. This is about a mile away and would require piping and pumping that would entail an estimated expense of $100,000, which the board feels is out of the question because of the present bonded debt of more than $300,000.

The other is the sinking of a well that would have a guaranteed flow of 1,000,000 gallons daily and would cost about $15,000 and could be completed in about two wekes. However the board is looking to the future, as well as the present emergency, and it has been made plain that the course to be followed will be based upon the report of Engineer Munroe and Dr. Caspari.

While admitting a great shortage at the reservoirs, offcilas of the water company reiterated today that there is no immediate cause for alarm, with emergency steps that are being followed, but consumers are requested to continue conservation as much as possible.

Estimate by Dr. Caspari.

Dr. Caspari, who has been in close touch with the local problem, has roughly estimated that streams and springs on the Schoen property will produce approximately 2,000,000 gallons daily. He is now making a more accurate test of the volume.

Mayor Quenstedt explained that from a busines standpoint he does not see the necessity of shouldering an additional $100,000 expense, if 1,000,000 gallons of water can be obtained from a well that would cost approximately $15,000. The Mayor maintains that this move would prove most advantageous. He has received a letter from the board of managers of the State Hospital for Negro insane at Crownsville, offering to cooperate with the municipality in the event that negotiations for the Schoen property are opened.

The Schoen property could be had for $13,000 and the hospital authorities stand ready to divert water from the sewerage diaposal plant elsewhere than in the direction of the streams to prevent pollution.

Farmers' Picnic Rejoices at Rain

Rockingham County, Virginia, Cheered by Fall of Half Inch.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 26.—More than a half inch of rain, falling steadily for several hours and the heaviest individual shower in Rockingham County, since last April, sent 2,000 drought-stricken farmers, farm wives and farm children joyously scampering home, this afternoon from the annual picnic of the Rockingham Farm Bureau, held on the grounds of the Massanetta Bible Conference.

The rain, alternating between a steady downpour to a light drizzle, continued to fall early tonight and revived parched pasture lands, but came too late to help hay crops and corn. Much of the latter has already been cut for ensilage. It also refreshed apple trees and saved many shade trees in yards. The rain extended back into the mountains, where the forests have suffered terribly from the drought.

The principal speaker at the Farm Bureau picnic was E. J. Bell, jr., of the divisino of cooperative marketing of the Federal Farm Board, who told the Rockingham farmers of the steps necessary to be taken to affiliate with the Farmers National Grain Corporation.

Maryland Holds Drought Parley

Commission to Form Relief Groups in Counties and Cut Rail Rates.

Baltimore, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The tentative program of the commission of 29 named by Gov. Ritchie to organize a relief for drought distress in Maryland is to form county relief organizations, a series of agricultural credit corporations and to extend to all counties the reduced railroad rates on certain farm products. The program was agreed on at the initial meeting yesterday of the commission composed of farm representatives, bankers and business men.

More definite action was postponed until tomorow when a report will be heard from the bankers' subcommittee in Washington for a national conference today.

The commission was told by farmers' representatives that immediate needs are extension of credit and the protection of an adequate live stock feed supply for the winter months but a proposal that large quantities of hay be bought immediately was not adopted. Four associations in Maryland would be affected by the credit corporation proposal, three dairymen's associations and a tobacco growers' cooperative. Only 10 of the 23 counties now enjoyed the reduced railroad rates.

Tel. Clar. 800. Clarendon, Va.

George Rufus Fillmore, of O street near Thirty-second street northwest, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Washington polcis of the Seventh Precinct and turned over to the Arlington County police as a suspect in connection with the burglary of several homes on the Lee Highway near Falls Church Monday. Mrs. David N. Luttrel, who surprised the intruder ransacking her home, was not positive in her identification of Fallmore as the man.

William Rucker, a neighbor of the Luttrels, who pursued the man for several miles with a shotgun and had gotten a better impression of him, was taken before the man yesterday evening. Rucker was positive that Fillmore was not the person he pursued. The Arlington police then returned Fillmore to the Seventh Precinct, where he was being held for investigation in connection with another charge.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Arlington Chapter 139, American Legion, will hold its meeting this evening in the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce rooms on Wilson boulevard in Clarendon. The members will held an installation of the recently elected officers. This will be the last meeting of the auxiliary before the delegates leave to attend the annual convention, which is to be held this year in Harrisonburg from September 7 to 10, inclusive. All who plan to attend the convention next month have been urged to attend the meeting.

The luncheon of the Clarendon Circle of the St. George's Episcopal Church, which was scheduled to take place this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Barnum Smith, has been postponed until further notice, according to announcement made yesterday evening by the officers of the circle.

The Barcroft School and Civic League will hold a special meeting this evening in the Community Hall at Barcroft. The organization will discuss questions concerning the future welfare of the community.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Members of the "officeholders" wing of the Republican party in Richmond this afternoon elected district and State convention delegates, routing a dissenting group which split several days ago with the filing of charges in Washington that officeholders were too active in local politics.

The dissenting group was completely overwhelmed. Resolutions were adopted indorsing the Hoover administration.

Virginia Rum Raid Ends in Fatality

Robert McVey Shot Fleeing From Mountain Still Near Bedford.

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., Aug. 26.—Robert McVey was shot and killed instantly near Stone Road Church on Smith's Mountain, in the extreme southern part of the county, Sunday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock. McVey was fleeing from a still when shot. Prohibition officers who made the raid believe that he was shot by a bullet from the gun of a confederate which was intended for one of the officers.

E. A. Newman, State prohibition officer, and G. U. Newman, R. W. Willard and W. H. Whitten, deputy sheriffs, composed the raiding party which located the still in an isolated hollow, a mile or so from any road or cultivated field. The still was located Thursday of last week and the officers judged by the condition of the mash that the run would be ready Sunday, and when they went back Sunday afternoon they found four men engaged in the operation, according to Officer Newman.

When the presence of the officers became known, the men ran. After they had run about 75 yards three shots were heard from the side of the mountains behind them and McVey fell almost at Whitten's feet. After the shots were fired a man was seen to run from the direction from which the shots came. Newman shot twice in the direction of the running man.

Injunction Denied Against Parsonage

Trustees Protest Use as Tourist Inn, but Fail in Court Plea.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 26.—A plea for an injunction to restrain the Rev. and Mrs. St. Clair Poffenberger from using the parsonage of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church at New Market as a tourists' inn was denied by Judge Phillips Williams in Shenandoah Circuit Court today.

Mrs. Lydia K. Arehart, complainant, declared that she sold the dwelling to the church at less than its market value for exclusive use as a parsonage. The defendants, including the trustees of the church, countered that the title to the property was given to the church by Mrs. Arahart without stipulation as to its use.

The injunction suit was without parallel in the Shenandoah Valley.

FARM DISPLAYS FEW AT WINCHESTER FAIR

Drought Affects Exhibits in Agrarian Section; Apples Are Scarce.

DOG SHOW IS FEATURED

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 26.—Farm and orchard displays were scarce today at the opening of the sixty-first annual exhibition of the Shenandoah Valley Agricultural Society on the Winchester Fair Grounds, due to the drought, which has gripped the valley since early last spring. The burning sun left hundreds of fields almost as barren as during the days of the Civil War, when the "granary of the Confederacy" was stripped and fired by invading armies.

However, farmers who could rake together even a small variety of products brought in their offerings to compete for prizes. Most of the apple displays consisted of early fall varieties and also late apples in the green state, all to be judged on their merits for prizes, which consist of silver cups and goblets offered by American and British commission houses dealing in fruits.

Other departments of the fair were well filled, these including the women's section for the display of preserving and canning, needlework of plain and fancy design, and china and canvas painting. Out on the grounds, barns and pens were filling up with horses, cattle, sheep, lambs and swine, and during the afternoon judges were passing among the entries, pinning a blue here and a red there.

The poultry section was larger this year than for several years, and a new feature was a dog show, in which the most famous exhibit was one of the huskies brought back from the Antarctic by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and sent to his brother, Tom, living here. Creditable displays were made by boys and girls of agricultural high schools of northern Virginia.

Night programs are to be featured with boxing bouts, in which a large number of aspiring sluggers of half a dozen States are matched, including also several members of a battery of Federal Field Artillery here from Fort Hoyle, Md. Use of modern motorized artillery equipment is also demonstrated on the ace track infield.

Pony races were held today and running and trotting events are carded for Wednesday and Thursday, with the major portion of the money going to the runners. Automobile races are programed for Friday.

T. W. PAGE TO JOIN TARIFF COMMISSION

Virginia Democrat Is Second to Be Appointed by President Hoover.

SERVED ON FIRST BOARD

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday completed one-third of the new tariff commission authorized under the Hawley-Smoot act by giving a recess appointment to Thomas Walker Page, native Virginian and widely known economist.

Mr. Page is a Democrat. He is 64 years old and served on the original U. S. Tariff Board under President Taft. He also served on the Tariff Commission under Presidents Wilson and Harding and was its chairman from 1920 to 1922.

The new appointee will take office September 16 along with Henry P. Fletcher, Pennsylvania Republican and former diplomat who was named chairman of the new body last week. On that date the present six-member, bipartisan commission will expire.

Like the present body, the new commission will have six members, three Republicans and three Democrats. Four more commissioners remain to be selected.

Many Inquiries Ahead.

Indications have pointed to the renomination of at least two incumbents, Edgar B. Brossard, Utah Republican, chairman, and Alfred P. Dennis, Maryland Democrat, vice-chairman. If they are renamed the President will have to find but one more Republican and one Democrat to complete the reorganization directed by Congress.

All members of the new commission will have to be confirmed by the Senate but pending that approval they will receive the salary of $11,000 a year each authorized in the 1930 tariff act.

The present commission has been given a huge task in the form of cost of production investigations under the flexible provisions, but is carrying on only preliminary work with the intension of leaving the larger phases to the new commission.

The Senate has directed the commission to investigate 35 articles and public notice has been given of inquiries in 27 cases. However, pending several months of investigation of differences of costs in production of the commodities in the United States and principal competing countries, no dates will be set for hearing domestic manufacturers.

On Soviet Labor.

In the next day or so the commission intends to initiate the remaining eight cost inquiries. Among these will be refined sugar. Atlantic seaboard refiners are seeking an increase in the refined duty, contending the raise in raw and refined rates under the new law was not in proportion to the spread between the old imposts. They assert this has given Cuban refiners an advantage.

Another inquiry to be left to the new commission will be that ordered by the House into the class of labor used on many articles imported from Soviet Russia. Commission officials, however, believe little information will be obtained in this investigation, as the United States has no official agents in Russia.

If proof is given that convict labor has entered into production of a commodity it may be barred from entry. This action was taken recently on Russian pulpwood, but the embargo was rescinded after further inquiry.

Mr. Page resides at 2400 Sixteenth street northwest.

BORAH UNOPPOSED FOR SENATE TERM

Democrats, at Convention, Decline to Offer Rival to Incumbent.

IS NOMINATED BY G. O. P.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, Aug. 26 (A.P.). Senator William E. Borah (Republican), chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, will be unopposed for reelection in November.

This was decided today when the Democratic and Republican State conventions met in Idaho to nominate candidates for State and congressional offices.

The Democrats, in session at St. Anthony, voted not to put a candidate in the field against the veteran Borah, who won renomination at the Republican convention here. The nomination failed of being unanimous by the vote of one county.

The delegates followed their support of Senator Borah with nomination by acclamation of Representatives Burton L. French, of the First District, and Addison T. Smith, of the Second District and as candidates for reelection.

Nominations in this State are made by the party conventions instead of by the direct primary system.

While deciding to offer no opposition to Senator Borah, the Democrats voted to name candidates to oppose the State's two representatives in Congress—Burton L. French and Addison T. Smith, both Republicans.

In advance of the balloting on nominations, supporters of John McMurray, of Oakley, were claiming his selection as the Republican gubernatorial nominee on the first ballot, while backers of Mayor C. Ben Ross, of Pocatello, declared enough votes were in sight to give him the Democratic nomination for governor on the initial ballot.

A split was reported among North Idaho Republican delegates threatening disruption of plans for a coalition between the forces of Byron Defenbach, of Lewiston, State treasurer, and Oscar E. Hailey, of St. Maries, in an effort to head off McMurray's selection. Defenbach, Hailey and Attorney General W. D. Gillis are candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Backers of Asher B. Wilson, of Twin Falls, were attempting to unite the Democratic opposition against Mayor Ross to prevent his designation on the first ballot as the Democratic standard bearer.

G. O. P. Scores Democratic Charges and Hull Sends Out Attack on Fess.

BURDEN ON TYPEWRITERS

This specific exhibit merely typifies the general character of their self-serving bedtime tales."

To judge by the opening paragraph of the Democratic statement, nobody would ever believe the nasty things that the Republicans have said about Shouse and Michelson. It has to do with ethics. In line with good ethics, the statement begins, the Democratic committee delayed publishing any comment on Senator Fess' Monday speech, because it felt that he was entitled to the "right of way."

Thereupon Representative Hull (or "Ghost" Michelson) proceeds to make Senator Fess out as a prevaricator. Culling from his speech a statement that the Hoover administration has a record of accomplishment that has never before been paralleled, Hull points to two "disasters"—the stock market crash and the agriculture depression—and declares that, while President Hoover may have done all he could, that was not enough.

Hoover's Best Not Enough.

"The chairman of the Republican National Committee," the statement says, "was naturally supposed to praise the administration, but it was not expected that he would go so far from the facts. He accuses the Democrats of attempting to capitalize the panic for political advantage, because they have called attention to the discrepancy between Mr. Hoover's campaign promises of continued prosperity if he were elected and the industrial situation as we find it today. I wonder what would have been Senator Fess' comment had a Democratic administration been placed in power and the business collapse had followed?

"According to this administration apologist, 'a serious crisis was impending' following the stock market crash, threatening that 'men would be thrown out of employment, productive industry would be at a standstill, and nation-wide suffering impending if not actually realized.' The inference is that because of the steps taken by President Hoover none of these things occurred. Unfortunately, they did occur and still obtain.

"No doubt the President did all he could. But all he could do was not sufficient to save us from the things that Senator Fess enumerates."

Tariff and Unemployment.

Hull took exception to Senator Fess' statement that the number of unemployed in this country was only about 2,500,000. Even the Census Bureau admits that this figure is low, he declares, and quotes Prof. Charles E. Persons as saying that the number of unemployed was about 5,000,000.

Hull also took issue with Fess on the latter's enthusiastic statements with regard to the tariff.

"He also assures us that retaliation by foreign nations has not occurred," Hull says, "and scoffs at the idea that our foreign trade will suffer because of the new tariff. This in the face of the fact that our foreign exports in July of this year were $134,000,000 below those of July, 1929, and that the imports suffered an equal decline."

The cannonading is expected to continue today.

Page County Drought Loss Set at $710,000

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Aug. 26.—Jacob R. Seekford, a former justice of the peace of Marksville District, who has just concluded a drought survey of farming conditions in Page County, has found the loss will reach $710,000. Mr. Seekford says that loss of the corn crop will total $300,000; hay crop, $100,000; fruit crop, $100,000; potato crop, $75,000, and the tomato crop, $75,000.

These figures are based on average crops in the past ten years. He does not count the cost of putting out the corn, potato and tomato crops. According to Mr. Seekford, Marksville and Luray Districts lose considerably more than either Shenandoah and Springfield Districts.

CLERK AND MOTHER CAMP OUT IN AUTO

trouble sleeping. And everyone was nice to us—the manager of the camp was just grand."

They were full of praise for Washington's hospitality toward visitors. While Mrs. Doll waited in the car she read or sewed. On hot days she went to the museums and spent her time in sight-seeing. Over week-ends she and her daughter took trips to places of interest in Maryland and Virginia.

When they came to Washington from the Kentucky city they had a complete camping outfit in the car. Sometimes, Mrs. Doll said, she would cook for them on their portable stove, and at other times they ate at the cafeteria at the camp. The manager of the cafeteria also came in for a share of Mrs. Doll's praise for his helpfulness.

Mr. Doll and a son, Wilbur Doll, were left in Louisville when the daughter came to Washington to work. They have joined the family now, however, and plan to stay here during the winter. The family has an apartment near the girl's office, on D street southwest. Wilbur will also spend the winter with the others if he can find a job here, they said.

They are not sure how much longer they will be here, as Miss Doll's appointment in the population section may be terminated at any time.

Though the two women were alone, they were never molested in any way, and all the people they met went out of their way to be nice to them, they said. Facilities at the Tourist Camp were excellent, and everything has been foreseen to contribute to the comfort of travelers, judging from the praise showered on camp personnel.

MONTGOMERY LANE PARKING BAN ISSUED

Traffic Becomes So Heavy County Commissioners Make Restriction.

FIRE HOUSE OPENS TODAY

Parking on the south side of Montgomery lane, from Wisconsin avenue to East lane, Edgemoor, is prohibited in an ordinance adopted yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners at their regular meeting in Rockville.

Traffic at this point has become so heavy that the parking ban was believed necessary from a safety standpoint.

The commissioners awarded the contract for the supply of coal for the county jail and the courthouse yesterday to the Rockville Fuel & Feed Co., of Rockville, the low bidder. The contract provides for the delivery of 100 tons of Pocahontas stove coal for the courthouse and 30 tons of furnace coal for the jail. The successful bidder offered prices of $7.34 a ton for the courthouse and $12.73 a ton for the jail coal. Thomas I. Fulks and Griffith Consumers were the next highest bidders.

A communication from the Maryland State roads commission was read by Berry Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, informing the commissioners that the contract for widening the State highway at Middlebrooke Hill, northwest of Gaithersburg, had been awarded to the M. J. Grove Lime Co., of Frederick. An immediate start of work has been promised by the successful bidder. There have been several fatal accidents at this point, and the widening of the road is expected to make travel safer.

A joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Republican Clubs of Silver Spring will be held Friday evening at the Masonic Temple at 8 o'clock. Several of the Republican candidates will speak at the meeting.

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Montgomery County Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League tomorrow at 8 o'clock in the Montgomery County Building at Bethesda. Other speakers will be on the program.

The Sandy Spring Volunteer Fire Department will formally open and dedicate its new firehouse this afternoon at 1 o'clock with a parade and carnival. The new firehouse, one of the most elaborate and best appointed of the county is open for inspection and the department's apparatus housed therein.

Three baseball games are to take place in the afternoon. Sport tournaments will follow the ball game.

One of the features of the celebration will be a parachute jump. The landing of the jumper will be the signal for the beginning of a sumptuous chicken dinner. Shows and midway attractions will vie with dancing for preeminence on the evening program.

The Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Volunteer Fire Department will open its new firehouse tomorrow with a parade and hook-up contest, which will be participated in by most of the county companies. The parade will begin at 3:30 o'clock. Contests also will be held for the women's auxiliary teams.

Silver cups donated by the Gaithersburg Chamber of Commerce will be presented to the winners of the contests. Several prominent speakers will address the gathering and supper will be served in the evening. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock in the recreation room and the bowling alleys in the basement will be open to the public.

William A Pate, jr., Rockville contractor, has started the work of excavating the site for the new Montgomery County Courthouse at Rockville. Tool sheds and temporary office buildings have been erected by the J. J. McDevitt Co., of Charlotte, N. C., which was awarded the contract for the construction of the new courthouse.

About ten months will be required for the construction of the courthouse, it is estimated. Work is progressing rapidly on the interceptor sewer which will connect the new courthouse and jail building with the town sewer system and necessary connections will be made by the town of Rockville to supply water.

Rain Is Welcomed In Loudoun County

Full Inch Falls Within an Hour to Aid Ardi Farm Lands.

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Aug. 26.—A heavy downpour, totaling a full inch in a single hour, early tonight gave Loudoun its first rain of any consequence since June 25 and broke the widespread drought in this immediate region.

With the exception of several slight drizzles this is the first rainfall to be recorded generally throughout the county in months.

Farmers and fruit growers were overjoyed at the downfall as a means of aiding late vegetation, pasture lands and orchards.

The rain, falling principally in the northern and western parts, failed to hit Leesburg, however.

Montgomery Singers To Vie for Radio Honor

In the first local competition in Maryland for the fourth national radio audition, young singers of Montgomery County will vie for honors September 8 in the Takoma Park Theater, at Takoma Park, in ceremonies under the direction of Mrs. J. Frank Rice.

Seven other Maryland cities also will hold local auditions during the next few weeks to select candidates for the Maryland State audition in Baltimore in October, preparatory to the district trials in November. The seven Maryland cities scheduling auditions include Easton, Baltimore, Cumberland, Frederick, Hagerstown, Annapolis and Riverdale.

Farmer and Merchant Die of Heart Attacks

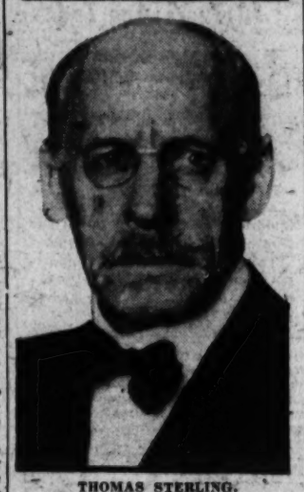
Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 26.—J. Webb McGlaughlin, aged 55, fell dead from a heart attack early this morning just after he had opened his grocery and meat market for the day. His widow and two children survive. He had devoted his entire life to the store, succeeding his late father in business.

At about the same time Joseph L. Flory, aged 62, prominent Timberville farmer and brother of Dr. John S. Flory, president emeritus of Bridgewater College, dropped dead at his barn from a similar attack. He leaves his widow and two children.

DIES AT HOME



THOMAS STERLING.

THOMAS STERLING, ONCE SENATOR, DIES

South Dakotan, Who Later Practiced Law Here, Dead at Home.

FIRST ELECTED IN 1913

Former Senator Thomas Sterling, of South Dakota, 79 years old, and prominent Washington attorney, died yesterday at his home at 2700 Thirty-sixth street northwest.

Survivors of Senator Sterling include a son, Floyd E. Sterling, of Westfield, S. Dak.; an adopted daughter, Mrs. Margaret Jorgenson, of Chicago, and a stepson, Wood McCaffin, of Washington. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence. The place of burial had not been chosen last night.

Senator Sterling was widely known in national political circles and served his State in the Senate from March 4, 1913, until March 4, 1925, when he was named by President Coolidge as field secretary of the Commission for the Celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington. Since his retirement from the Senate he has actively practiced his profession as a member of the well-known law firm of Sterling, Tedron & McCaslin, with offices in the Woodward Building.

Born on February 21, 1851, near Amanda, Fairfield County, Ohio, he moved at the age of 3 years with his parents to McLean County, Ill., where several years later his brother, the late former Representative John Allen Sterling, of Illinois, was born.

He was graduated in 1875 from the Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington, and served until 1877 as superintendent of schools of Bement, Ill. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1878, and began practice in Springfield, Ill. He was city prosecuting attorney there in 1880 and 1881.

In 1882 he moved to the Territory of Dakota, and from 1886 to 1888 was district attorney of Spink County. He was a member of the State constitutional convention in 1889, and a member of the State Senate in 1890. From 1901 to 1911 he served as dean of the College of Law in the University of South Dakota. Upon serving two terms as senator from his State on the Republican ticket, he was an unsuccessful candidate for renomination in 1924.

GERMAN FLIER LANDS IN NEW YORK HARBOR

route, for no arrangements have been made for fuel depots. They will stay here for several days at least, and hope to visit the national air races at Chicago.

The arrival in the harbor was spectacular. The decorated city tug Macom had set out with a welcoming committee to extend the city's greeting off the Statue of Liberty. Police and private planes circled above and police launches kept the thickening afternoon harbor traffic in orderly motion. And then suddenly the big flying boat, gray-green as the sea, flashed out from over the skyscrapers and swung in a wide circle over the Statue of Liberty.

Apparently not seeing the Macom, or not realizing what it was, Capt. von Gronau brought his rebuilt old veteran of the air down to a smooth landing just off the Battery sea wall and threw a rope to a police launch. When the returning Macom got to it the plane was prosaically anchored as the harbor traffic went by, barges and scows and ferries.

Contrast of Ships.

The flying boat was not the only ship from a European port to arrive today. As the plane from Germany lay at anchor off the Battery the great Majestic, of the Cunard Line, steamed up the bay inbound from Cherbourg and Southampton. For a moment they were close together, a picture of modern transportation.

When the Macom docked the German fliers transferred to a police launch and went ashore, leaving their plane squatting on the water against the background of the towering city. A large crowd cheered the fliers as they came ashore and were escorted to the office of the marine police.

There was a brief interview, Capt. von Gronau acting as spokesman for his companions, Edward Zimmer, Franz Hack and Fritz Albrecht, who were less familiar with English and who showed their pleasure by grinning at the reporters and waving to the crowds.

Then they went back to their plane and flew it over Manhattan to a police hangar on the East River, where it will be overhauled. It is an old plane, having been used five years ago in the Arctic by the late Roald Amundsen. The next year Capt. Frank Courtney, of England, started a flight to America in it, but was forced down at sea.

4,000 Miles Covered.

Capt. von Gronau said he did not announce he was planning a flight across the Atlantic when he took off from the Isle of Syit, in the North Sea, a week ago yesterday because he was not sure himself just how far he was going to be able to go.

"I thought it was best," he said, "just to start out and see how it went for awhile."

The German crew followed a long northerly course by way of Faroes, Iceland, Greenland, Labrador and Nova Scotia, leaving Halifax this morning for New York. The route was about 4,000 nautical miles and the flying time was 47 hours.

Capt. von Gronau, standing on the sea wall, looked out at his old ship riding easily on the swells and smiled with pride.

"Not so many years from now," he predicted, "a plane from Europe will be landing in this harbor every day."

Prince Georges Officials Say That They Have Taken Adequate Steps.

TO AWAIT GRAND JURY

Holding that they have taken adequate steps in the matter for the present, the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday decided to take no immediate action on a second letter received from Charles B. Calvert, Mount Rainier attorney, regarding the alleged presence in the county of a large gambling establishment and charges of graft among county officials.

The commissioners turned the letter received from Mr. Calvert at a former meeting over to State's Attorney J. Frank Parran and Sheriff Charles S. Early for action. Mr. Parran at that time announced that he planned calling Mr. Calvert and any witnesses he could produce before the county grand jury in October.

Mr. Calvert objects to waiting until October and asks that immediate steps be taken in the raiding and closing of the alleged establishment on Bladensburg road.

"Why can not the officers of Prince Georges County do as they do everywhere else, proceed at once to raid this place, by warrant and search warrant?" he asks in his letter. "Why can not they post men outside the place and take the numbers of the automobiles parked daily, over 200 of them, about this gambling place?"

He charges that county officers are accepting bribes to permit the establishment to remain open and expresses the hope that "some early and radical change in the conditions in this county will render unnecessary the giving of names and addresses and definite charges."

Attorney Calvert also asks the commissioners to inquire into the bonding situation in the county, pointing out that prompt action has been taken by Washington police officials to bar collusion between police and bondsmen. He suggests that the county commissioners refuse to pay fees to constables who have a multiplicity of charges made in cases, apparently for the purpose of collecting more fees.

Several homes were threatened yesterday afternoon by a fire which raged in the woods near District Heights and which approached closely to the town itself. Volunteer firemen from Upper Marlboro, Seat Pleasant, Boulevard Heights, Capitol Heights and Greater Capitol Heights battled the flames and managed to extinguish the fire after several hours of intensive effort.

The Maryland branch of the Susan B. Anthony Foundation, through its State director, Mrs. Virginia Peters-Parkhurst, of Berwyn, yesterday placed a bunch of golden rod and ferns, the organization colors of yellow and green, under the portrait of Susan B. Anthony, now on exhibition in the headquarters of the National League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Parkhurst called attention to the fact that the tribute was made in memory of the tenth aniversary of the signing of th proclamation granting the vote to women.

DEATH ENDS CAREER OF LON CHANEY AT 47

Wife and Son at Bedside of Character Actor, Who Rose to Heights.

EULOGIZED BY LAEMMLE

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Lon Chaney, the actor, whose "thousand faces" were known wherever a motion picture unfolded upon a screen, wore his last mask today—in death.

The artist whose heroic pantomime won the applause of millions in "The Miracle Man" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," died at a hospital here last night from complications of pneumonia, a throat affliction and anemia.

Blood transfusions were resorted to in the ten-day battle to save his life. Yesterday he took his first nourishment in three days and hope was renewed as he regained some of his waning strength. At midnight a lung hemorrhage occurred so suddenly physicians failed to reach him before he passed away.

Once Was "Ham" Actor.

Those close to Chaney—and they were few in his 47 years of life—were with him as the curtain fell. They were his son, Creighton, and his wife, Hazel Hastings Chaney, whom he married 22 years ago.

Chaney, ironically, was born on All Fools Day, 1883, in Colorado Springs, Colo. His parents were deaf mutes. To this circumstance has been attributed much of his peculiar ability as a mimic.

By the slow steps of stage property boy, stage hand, song and dance man in a benefit show at 16, wandering "ham" actor, and then film extra, Chaney climbed into the movies as a slapstick comedian in 1912. His first screen credit was two years later, when Universal Pictures gave him a leading role in "Hell Morgan's Girls."

Eulogized by Magnate.

As the "frog" in "The Miracle Man," Chaney's unrivaled talents in grotesque characterization brought him the recognition of the world.

"Chaney is one of screendom's real immortals," Carl Laemmle, his associate of years in the studio, said of his passing. "We saw him in a humble start, from which he reached the height of brilliancy in the roles he loved."

Recognition of his skill in portraying strange and unhuman characters was followed by Chaney's retreat into a life of seclusion akin to that of many of his screen people. Only a few persons were welcomed to his home and on the lot he was reserved. Among his closest friends were Gen. Smedley Butler, noted Marine officer, and Eddie Gribbon, stage and screen comedian.

Funeral services will be held in a mortuary here Thursday afternoon.

Ten Seized in Clash Of Garment Strikers

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Seven men and three women, garment strikers, were arrested today charged with interfering with girl employes on their way to work in an infants' wear factory in the garment-making district.

The disorder came a few hours after a general strike had been called in the children's dress industry. Union leaders said 7,000 workers were on strike.

CATHOLIC ALUMNAE DISCUSS EDUCATION

Federal Control Opposed at Session; Legislation Study Urged.

MOVIE LIST QUESTIONED

Emmittsburg, Md., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Voicing opposition to the establishment of a department of education, with the drawing of educational control from the States to the central government, delegates attending the biennial convention of the International Catholic Alumnae here were urged today by Miss Agnes Regan, chairman of the committee on legislation, to take an active interest in national, State and civic legislation.

"It behooves us," she said, "to interest ourselves in educational legislation in the several States. The fact that we maintain our own educational system should not prevent us from being deeply interested in the great public school system in which many of our Catholic children must of necessity be included and where thousands of Catholic teachers are employed."

Strengthening of Catholic schools by the fullest opportunity for perfect preparation of its teachers was urged by Mrs. Harry M. Benzinger, of Baltimore, international chairman of educational fund of the federation, who spoke this morning.

She said: "In the near future, there will be a Nation-wide discussion regarding the control and direction of education. Every member of the association should be prepared to understand the issues which are to come up in the national congress, and to be discussed in the press of the country."

Mrs. Benzinger said 48 scholarships had been donated, 42 of the number by 28 Catholic colleges.

A dispute over the advisability of permitting the Motion Picture Producers Association to pay the cost of publishing a monthly list of approved films, raised at the convention of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, was settled today by an announcement of the president, Mrs. Mary Blake Finan, that the matter would be left to the motion picture committee of the federation.

Mrs. Thomas A. McGoldrick, of New York City, chairman of the committee, defended the publication and said that the committee last year indorsed only 51 per cent of the films reviewed last year.

POLICE MUST REPAY $3,600 TO DISTRICT

McCarl Rules 25 Men Got Increase in Salary One Year Too Soon.

ISSUE RAISED BY GRANT

Approximately $3,600, received by 25 metropolitan and park policemen through the recent police and firemen's pay increase act, must be repaid to the District because of an erroneous interpretation of these cases, it was ruled yesterday by Comptroller General J. Raymond McCarl.

Comptroller McCarl's opinion, in writing, was in answer to queries of Col. U. S. Grant 3d in regard to the exact amount that park policemen should receive under the new act. The ruling applies also to metropolitan police who have the same status as park police in the pay increase bill.

Each policeman received at least $100 increase in pay when the bill became effective on January 1 of this year. Those who served seven years or more received $300, an icrease of from $2,100 to $2,400; those who had served six years but less than seven years were raised from $2,100 to $2,300, and those who had served less than six years received $100 increases. The problem concerned men who completed an additional year's service shortly after receiving the increase. The question was whether these men would have to wait one year from the date of the last increase before getting the next $100 which their service entitled them. Comptroller McCarl ruled that they must wait.

Rites in New York For Leopold Auer

Crowds Mill Outside the Chapel as Heifetz Plays at Bier of Teacher.

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Broadway today bade farewell to the man who taught Mischa Elman and Jascha Heifetz to play the violin. Perhaps the late Dr. Leopold Auer cared little for Broadway during his lifetime, but that mattered not to Broadway. For he was a celebrity of sorts, and today at his funeral a pupil more famous than the master was to play a melody that has been heard thousands and thousands of times on phonographs clear around the world.

So, while Jascha Heifetz, pale and grave, solemnly played the Schubert "Ave Maria" at the bier of his friend and teacher in a Broadway funeral establishment, crowds of perspiring [illegible] on the doors outside, argued stormily with the police, clamored for admission.

Men and women of distinguished appearance and boys and girls with music portfolios were among the pushing crowd on the sidewalk, in the vestibule, on the stairway. When the crowd threatened to batter down one door that led indirectly to the chapel, police started to clear the place. One woman refused to move. Two policemen carried her away.

FIFTH WOMAN HELD IN NAGEL'S SLAYING

Georgia Sheriff Claims to Have Evidence in Death of Capital Painter.

SOUGHT TAXI MAN DEAD

Special to The Washington Post.

Darien, Ga., Aug. 26.—A fifth woman today was drawn into the web of circumstances surrounding the mysterious disappearance and death of Frank Nagel, Washington, D. C., interior decorator, whose decapitated body was found in a swamp near here February 8.

Jeannette Houston was arrested in Jacksonville, Fla., and returned here tonight by Sheriff A. S. Poppell, of McIntosh County. She admitted to officers that she was riding with Nagel, five other women and another man the night he disappeared, but denied that she knew anything of the killing.

With the Houston woman, Lillian Rewis and Ann Rowe are charged with being accessories before the fact in the death of Nagel, and Ruth Cross, now free under bond of $500 awaiting action by the grand jury, is held as an accessory after the fact. Daisy Rowe Crisp, sister of Ann, is alleged to have been hostess of the house at Brunswick, Ga., where a party was staged the last night Nagel was seen alive.

Search for Herbert Hamlin, taxi driver wanted in connection with the case, ended today when it was learned that he had died suddenly in Albany, Ga., July 2.

Sheriff Poppell, however, said that he expected to complete his investigation with the arrest of one other woman. The group now in jail here will be given preliminary hearings Wednesday morning.

The sheriff said that he had uncovered evidence to show that one member of the party with Nagel on the night of his disappearance stabbed him to death. Although declining to reveal details of his inqury, he said that he had learned that all members of the party were drinking heavily, and within a short distance of the Rowe home Nagel was assaulted and left badly injured on the highway.

The cab driver then took the woman in his cab to the Rowe home and returned to Brunswick, the sheriff says. Shortly afterward a car carrying the rest of the party passed Nagel, who was staggering along the road. Poppell claims that then some occupant of the second machine got out and stabbed him.

Authorities were still mystified by identity of the author of a telegram sent to a brother of Nagel in Washington in December, 1928, informing him that Nagel had died and that his body was en route to Washington. The telegram was sent before the killing occurred the sheriff believes. The body never arrived at Washington, but was found more than a year afterward.

Founder of Spain's Foreign Legion on Way to America

Gen. Jose Millan Astray, Minus Arm and Eye, Hopes to Find Valiant "Yanqui" Who Paid Soldier Tribute to Wife of His Commander.

Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, Africa, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—with an arm shot off and an eye shot out, a bullet hole through his face and scars of a hundred desert battles on his body, Gen. Jose Millan Astray, founder of the Spanish Foreign Legion, is on his way to America.

He has been invited to Mexico as an honor guest by President Ortiz Rubio and the secretary of war, Gen. Jotquin Amaro. He expects to reach Vera Cruz September 1 on the Alfonso III, after a stop in Havana August 30, and probably will reach New York October 5.

The general would like very much to find in the United States a certain "Yonqui," one of many roamers and adventurers who at one time or another have chosen, for reasons best known to themselves, to enlist under any name that pleased them in perhaps the hardest boiled body of fighting men on earth—not excepting the French Foreign Legion; for the Spanish outfit prides itself on being, if anything, harder than the French.

This "Yanqui" was lying wounded in a Spanish Moroccan hospital, and the wife of Gen. Millan Astray, as was her custom, visited there and gave him a few cigarets, a smile, a pat on his forehead and a word of cheer. She did that to thousands.

"To 20,000, all in all, I dare say," said Gen. Millan Astray, reminiscing. "But of all those thousands, that yanqui did something no other legionnaire ever did. When he could walk he went to the town market and, from his few coppers, bought a little bouquet of flowers and four pieces of candy. He limped out to my house and requested to see my wife. With great dignity yet simplicity he presented to her the little flowers and the four pieces of candy.

"She was very touched. And I was—although, of course, I could never let him know so because of discipline. Only a Yanqui did, or could do, that. I should love to see that Yanqui when I am in the United States—but, of course, I never will. I do not even know his name, or whether he is alive.

"We have had fine 'Yanqui' fighting men in the legion. Some Negroes have been especially notable—black men from the South of your country. They will fight, those men. I remember one who called himself Jack Johnson. Of course, he was not the price fighter. I never had a better noncommissioned officer. I don't know his real name. All we ask in the legion is that a man be a soldier and indifferent to hardship and danger. We ask no other questions. But God help the man who thinks it is a place for weaklings."

More than 15 years ago King Alfonso conceived the idea that Spain might well organize a foreign legion, on the lines of the French body of that name, in Spanish Africa. Millan Astray, then a captain of infantry, son of one of the most brilliant police officers of Spain, and with a fine army record, was selected to do the job. For twelv years he headed it, fighting African tribesmen. When, after many less serious wounds, he was one-eyed, one-armed and full of lead and dagger thrusts, spear gashes and saber cuts, the Spanish government did somthing it has done in modern times to no other of its officers. Instead of retiring him as physically unfit it elevated him in the active army list—the highest honor that could be given this fighting man. He is an inspector general of the army and honorary colonel of the legion which he made.

RECLUSE, 84, FOUND PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Autopsy Asked by Neighbors Finds Mrs. Sutton Died of Illness.

BODY TAKEN FROM TRAIN

Bronchial pneumonia was given as the cause of the death of Mrs. Mary L. Sutton, 84-year-old wealthy recluse, following an autopsy today at the District morgue by Deputy Coroner Joseph D. Rogers.

The body was removed to the District morgue on orders of Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, who had it intercepted as it was about to be placed aboard a train at Union Station by two colored funeral directors.

Coroner Nevitt explained that there were no suspicious circumstances surrounding the death. The inquest was ordered after several neighbors of the dead woman asked that her death be investigated.

The body was to be buried in Greenwich, Conn. Friends from that city took charge of the remains, following the autopsy. A death certificate signed by a colored physician gave the cause of death as bronchial pneumonia.

Mrs Sutton left a will on file in the Connecticut city, in which she made provision for the disposition of her estate, which is valued at $100,000. Mrs. Matilda Johnson, of Morristown, Pa., a niece of Mrs. Sutton, is the only surviving relative.

Mrs. Sutton had lived in seclusion for several years, with only her servants. She made her home at Randolph street, near Sixth street northwest.

Grain Elevator Tower On Fire as Two Die

Minneapolis, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—An explosion in an old grain elevator turned it into a towering torch, sending two workers to their deaths today. The dead are Philip Olson, 32; Harold Barnett, 25.

Fire broke out immediately after the explosion, sending flames high in the air. It was impossible to rescue the two men. Members of their families watched firemen trying to extinguish the blaze, which did damage estimated at $100,000. The cause of the explosion was believed to have been spontaneous combustion or a small fire in the machinery.

"There is nothing I can say, except that I am heartbroken" she declared. She planned to leave immediately for Baltimore.

HUNT FOR GANG CHIEF COVERS LAND, OCEAN

"Legs" Diamond Sought by New York Police After Finding of Arsenal.

FIND BLOOD-STAINED CAR

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.). — The mystery of the whereabouts of John T. ("Legs") Diamond, gangland leader, today puzzled police who are searching for a missing Catskills roadhouse keeper and at the same time trying to solve the significance of a gangland arsenal seized here Sunday.

The blood-stained automobile of Harry Weston, the hotel keeper, who has been missing since last Friday, was found in a garage here yesterday. The armament cache seizure was accompanied by the arrest of three men and one woman.

Cables to the master of the liner Baltic, inquiring whether Diamond was aboard, went unanswered today. The gangster, who is at liberty on $15,000 bail on a two-year-old narcotic charge, was reported to have sailed Saturday for Europe. Meanwhile, up-State police suspected he was in hiding in the Catskills and pressed the search there.

Police also notified authorities of ports at which the Baltic docks, to watch for Diamond. Commissioner Mulrooney said he had not asked the gangster's arrest, but only wanted his movements followed.

Greene County authorities aided by State troopers, raided Diamond's country estate at South Durham, N. Y., today and arrested William Warring, 19, described as an errand boy for the gangster. Warring was held for questioning. No weapons or liquor were found on the estate. Mrs. Diamond, a woman friend and two children were not arrested.

Jersey City police were asked to locate Thomas Collins for questioning in the disappearance of Weston. His identity and connection with the case was not explained.

LEGION POST SCORED FOR CARTER ATTACK

Veterans in Printing Office Claim Discrimination Charges False.

OFFICE CHIEF IS LAUDED

Charges that Public Printer George H. Carter discriminated against former service men employed in the Government Printing Office, recently made in resolutions adopted by the Vincent B. Costello Post of the American Legion, were denounced as "a malicious misrepresentation of the facts to the public" by members of the Government Printing Office, unit No. 1 of the United Veterans of American Wars, at a meeting late yesterday afternoon in Harding Hall at the Government Printing Office.

Adopting resolutions denouncing the allegations of the American Legion Post, the veterans organization of the Government Printing Office commended Mr. Carter for "his fair and generous consideration to former service men employed in the Government Printing Office." Responding to the charge of the Vincent B. Costello Post that Mr. Carter dismissed en former service employes without charges being preferred against them, the veterans unit resolutions stated that in reality only two "probationary former service employes have been dropped during the past month."

The Vincent B. Costello Post, in its resolutions, singled out the case of one "former service employe" who was dismissed who had five small children and was buying a home. Answering this, the Government Printing Office veterans unit declared that neither of the two men discharged had more than two children.

The two men were discharged, according to the veterans unit, because "they failed to meet the usual office requirements which were and are being successfully met by other former service men in the Government Printing Office." There are approximately 750 former service men employed in the Government Printing Office, it was shown, and a great many of them are members of unit No. 1.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted after a brief discussion. They were signed by Ernest Wickstrand, commander of the unit, and Steve Hardee, acting adjutant. Copies will be sent to the Vincent B. Costello Post, department commanders of the American Legion, to the Public Printer and to all Washington newspapers.

PERU'S REVOLUTION.

A season of disorder and violence is to be expected in Peru. The promise of Gen. Ponce, head of the Lima military junta, to bring former President Leguia back for trial for alleged "misdeeds," instead of permitting him to leave on a warship, may be the forerunner of fighting between Leguia's adherents and the junta that has assumed power at Lima. The safety of foreigners taking asylum in the embassies and legations has been guaranteed by Gen. Ponce.

Signs of a break between the Lima junta and Col. Sanchez Cerro are already reported. Cerro first raised the flag of revolt against Leguia, and captured Arequipa. Before he could reach Lima a hastily organized clique forced Leguia to resign and Gen. Ponce assumed power. Now efforts are being made to bring the two juntas into cooperation, but the probabilities point to a clash.

The revolt against President Leguia is said to have had its origin in the deep resentment of the military element against the settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute with Chile. The Peruvian army was irreconcilably opposed to a settlement. The arbitral award was attacked by the military men on the ground that it was based upon an erroneous translation, and they urged President Leguia to demand a decision from President Coolidge, the arbitrator, according to the facts reported by Gen. Pershing and later by Gen. Lassiter. But Mr. Leguia preferred to adopt a pacific policy, in close harmony with the policy outlined by the United States, and he was finally successful in adjusting the dispute by a division of the territory. This settlement was bitterly opposed by the Peruvian military element.

The Peruvian revolution, therefore, is largely in consequence of military antagonism to a peaceful and just settlement of the Tacna-Arica question. President Leguia is virtually a victim of his devotion to peace. His overthrow may be intended, also, as an affront to the United States, on account of its activity in counseling the Peruvian-Chilean accord.

For the time being there is no government in Peru worthy of recognition by the United States. In case of a clash between the Lima and Arequipa juntas a period of anarchy may ensue. But even if the revolutionists should succeed in organizing a government, the United States would do well to consider carefully the question of extending recognition. The overthrow of constitutional and orderly government by violence anywhere in this hemisphere should never be encouraged by early recognition on the part of the United States. Not until and unless the people have had an opportunity to express their approval of a revolutionary government should its claims be recognized. In spite of the tumult of students at Lima, the Leguia regime may have the support of the majority of the Peruvian people.

SHIPPING LINE MAKES GOOD.

The Export Steamship Co. completed five years of service on August 25, in the face of predictions that it would be forced to go under a foreign flag. It is stronger than ever, having begun business with 18 vessels and now having a fleet of 39. In addition to the steamer recently christened by Mrs. Hoover, the Export Line has another almost ready to be launched, still another on the stocks, and has contracted for a fourth. The new vessels will cost about $2,250,000 each, and will have a tonnage of 8,000, with arrangements for both passengers and freight.

The Export Line touches at Mediterranean and Black Sea ports, and is developing a profitable commerce in spite of vigorous foreign competition. This success is made possible by the favorable terms of the Jones-White act, under which President Herberman has been enabled to finance the construction of new vessels that will help to develop passenger as well as freight traffic. The American flag is now regularly seen in the far-off ports of the Levant, and American tourists are discovering that the ports made accessible by the Export Line are among the most picturesque and historically interesting in the world.

OBSTRUCTIONISTS ACTIVE AGAIN.

The anticipated announcement comes from Democratic and insurgent circles that the nomination of Henry P. Fletcher to be chairman of the Tariff Commission will meet with opposition in the Senate. A fight against the new commission was planned by the coalition long before Mr. Fletcher's name or any other had ever been mentioned in connection with the chairmanship. Senator Harrison charged the President with withholding the names of appointees because he did not want them subjected to scrutiny, and promised on the floor of the Senate that whoever might be named to the commission would be put through the third degree.

Opposition to confirmation of all the Republican members of the new commission is to be expected. The coalition has not yet accepted its defeat on the tariff bill. It attempts to frustrate every effort of the administration to give effect to the new measure. Having failed to secure the kind of tariff bill they wanted, the Democrats and insurgents have adopted a consistent program of obstruction that is applied to every move connected with the inauguration of the new tariff policy.

This attitude on the part of the Senate obstructionists made reorganization of the Tariff Commission very difficult. Prospective candidates have repeatedly declined appointment to the commission rather than be subjected to mudslinging in the Senate. If the President reappoints Edgar B. Brossard, present chairman of the commission, or any of the other protectionists on the commission, they, too, will have to face the firing line.

The principal opposition to Mr. Fletcher arises from the fact that he is from Pennsylvania, and that he believes in the protection of American industry and labor. In the eyes of the coalition that disqualifies him from service on the Tariff Commission. The absurdity of Congress adopting a protectionist policy and then rejecting appointees to the commission on the ground that they believe in high tariffs does not occur to the coalition. But it is quite apparent to the public.

LON CHANEY.

Of all the talented motion picture stars, Lon Chaney, who died yesterday in Los Angeles, was the most versatile. No one could match Chaney for make-up. With a bit of crepe hair, a box of grease paint and a lump of make-up putty, he could re-make his features to the most fearful pattern and with contrivances he himself fashioned in deepest secret he could transform his athletic, well-proportioned body into the gnarled, broken figure of a human derelict. Chaney was the frog in "The Miracle Man." He was the Hunchback of Notre Dame. Those who saw these characterizations saw the consummate master of make-up in his full glory.

Chaney was born of deaf and dumb parents. As a boy it was his household task to act the part of interpreter for his parents, and to the skill in pantomime which he gained by this means he attributed his success in the movies. As a young man he joined a traveling road show as a stage hand and received his baptism behind the footlights. His chief interest lay in make-up. He was always experimenting with grease paint and putty, but he made his motion picture debut, not as a character actor, but as a lowly extra in "Westerns." It was not until the release of "The Miracle Man" that Chaney attained screen celebrity. In that picture he had his first opportunity to make practical use of the extraordinary skill he had attained in grotesque make-up, and from that time on Chaney portrayed only the sinister, pain-wracked, deformed characters that allowed him to exercise his peculiar talents.

There grew up a tradition of mystery around Chaney. He lived to himself, refusing interviewers and holding aloof from Hollywood society. He had few friends. His strange way of living, judged by the customary standards of Hollywood life, added to his prestige. It was only comparatively recently that he consented to pose for photographs "out of character." Lon Chaney brought to the screen a new note. His work before the camera showed the possibilities latent exclusively in the motion picture. In his death the screen loses one of its few genuine artists.

NAMES IN WHO'S WHO.

Every time a new edition of Who's Who in America is published it revives that old question: Is a college education the road to success? Getting one's name in Who's Who is indicative of a successful, or at least a spectacular, career, and the public always wants to know how many of this elite group are college men. This information is useful in estimating the value of a college education.

This year's edition of Who's Who in America contains 29,704 names. The biographical sketches show that 23,000 of this number, or about 85 per cent, have had some college training, and nearly 20,000, or 73 per cent, are college graduates. This leads immediately to the popular conclusion that university training is essential to success.

When the whole adult population is taken into consideration it is found that only 4.55 have pursued any studies in college, and hardly more than 20 out of every 1,000 are college graduates. Yet those twenty have three chances of getting their names in Who's Who for every 1 chance open to the 980 who do not graduate from college.

Educators will no doubt seize upon this new argument for college education and make the most of it. But few young men will be influenced to go to college because of the prospects of getting their names in Who's Who. Some will be astute enough to observe that the leaders in science, politics, religion, business, industry, and the professions would be leaders even if there were no colleges. Save for the names of educators, this index of men and women who are recognized for ability or achievements would probably not be substantially altered if college training were unknown. Of course, there are many exceptions, but as a rule the characteristics which take a person to the top are innate. They can not be acquired in college, but they may be developed there. These 20,000 Americans did not attain their distinction because they went to college, but they went to college to be trained for the kind of work they wanted to do. The number of college men who get their names in Who's Who has little or nothing to do with the desirability of a college education in individual cases.

WHAT? NO BANDITS?

The British and French jurists and lawyers who have just escaped alive from Chicago are now enjoying the sights of Washington. They are said to be delighted with their reception in various parts of the United States, but they confess that they have seen very little of the terrorism, banditry and bloodletting that are supposed to prevail in this country, and especially in Chicago. So far as known, no foreign jurist has been compelled to pull his gun to destroy a bandit.

Can it be that Americans exaggerate? Is it possible that distinguished foreigners can gather in Chicago and escape practically intact? What story will the visitors tell to their countrymen upon their return? How will they explain the fact that they traveled through many populous American cities and were never robbed, gagged, taken for a ride, or molested by machine gun bandits? Their descriptions of life in America promise to be tame, indeed. Surely, before they depart from these hospitable shores, some demonstration should be organized by America's enterprising gunmen, to entertain the visitors and give them some of the fine points of modern crime.

A hurricane is reported in the South. Just when the Republican party is laying plans to hold Florida, too!

ROMANCE OF THE A. G. O.

From the Kansas City Times.

The Adjutant General's Office of the War Department is the largest record office in the world. It is the one administrative branch of the Government which pertains directly to the individual American family.

Mothers, fathers, wives and sweethearts have many occasions to write the adjutant general of the Army. Some write to verify military service; others to establish claims for pension, compensation and medical treatment; others, such as deserted wives, seek support, or Gold Star mothers wish to visit their sons' graves in France.

In the old days all the correspondence of the war office was copied in longhand, in huge books. Some of the revolutionary records are of intense historical interest. Every American's heart is thrilled by the signatures of Washington, Lafayette and De Kalb on their official oaths of office at Valley Forge in 1778.

Another interesting paper of this period is an order from Gen. George Washington calling attention to the futility of profane swearing and requesting that all soldiers discontinue such offensive habits at once. We also find letters from Paul Revere that remind us of his dramatic midnight ride.

With these much-fought-over records are the secret telegrams of President Lincoln, written in 1864-65, in his handwriting. There are also several communications from this most unusual President extending clemency to inconsequential unfortunates. The papers of Gen. Grant, Gen. McClellan and others equally famous are also carefully preserved. Many communications are found from Jefferson Davis.

But the most surprising documents of this period are the original pencilled notes of Grant and Lee arranging for the surrender at Appomattox Court House in 1865.

All the Civil War records are written in longhand, peculiarly spelled and on strange-looking paper. It is not unusual to find a priceless Confederate document penned on the back of a torn bit of brittle wall paper.

Among these yellowed old papers there is a strange story of a West Point cadet who was accused of robbing a fellow student of petty cash. His room was searched and the officers found two bank notes between the pages of a dictionary. The cadet band played the "Rogues' March" and they marched the student off the campus, but he was brought back and given a military trial.

He pleaded "not guilty" and was finally acquitted for lack of evidence. Sentiment was strong against him, but one person believed in him—the girl who afterward became his wife.

The cadet was graduated and served his country as a splendid Army officer. But always there remained in the archives those telltale bills (evidence at the trial), fading as the years went by, but there just the same. Never again was there a stain on his character. When he became an old man the theft was still unsolved after all those years.

One day a letter came to the adjutant general, a letter from a classmate of the accused. It was the confession of a dying man who had stolen the money and who asked as a last favor that the stigma of guilt be removed from an innocent fellow officer's record.

The greatest volume of records filed in the Adjutant General's Office are those of the World War. Ten years before the war there were only a few hundred clerks in the greatest record office in the world, but after war was declared thousands of clerks were enrolled.

THE COOLIDGES AT PLYMOUTH.

Perhaps nothing else has revealed the tenderer side of Calvin Coolidge more clearly than his affection for the old home place at Plymouth, Vt., says the Kansas City Star. When Governor of Massachusetts he made frequent visits to the old farm and was devoted to his parents, who remained there. As Vice President he continued these visits. It was there he received his summons to assume the responsibilities of President. It was there he took the oath of office.

Now, in retirement, but still very much a public figure, he goes back again to the scenes of his boyhood. There is something very human and something a bit poetic in such cherishings, in such deep affection for the paths of childhood, for the streams and hills and trees that once constituted the big little world of a man later become famous.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE BEST FISHERMAN.

God bless the fisherman who brings
Us bass and perch and finny things,
And shares his catch with men like me
Who never cast in lake or sea.
When evening sends him back to shore
With twenty-seven fish or more
And that day's high adventure ends,
'Tis then he thinks about his friends.

Yet many a time I've made the wish
That I could dodge all gifts of fish.
Rather my time in peace I'd pass
Than be compelled to scale a bass;
Rather I'd unremembered be
When fishermen come home from sea
Than take their gifts which can but mean
That I've a dozen perch to clean.

Paul Strasburg is a fisherman
Whose gifts come ready for the pan.
His friendliness is double proved—
Scales gone, fins off and heads removed.
All gleaming white upon a dish
He comes at evening with his fish.
God's blessing on that friend I pray
Who cleans the perch he gives away!

When You Want More Eggs, Try Feeding the Hens.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

BLOOD is the stream of life. When it stops flowing, life is ended. There is just as much blood in a dead body as there is in a live one, but it isn't circulating.

The life blood of commerce is money. When business is stagnant and times are hard, there is no decrease of wealth. Factories, farms and mines are worth as much as they ever were. There is just as much money in the land as there ever was.

The only difference is that the money isn't circulating. And when money stops circulating, the effect on business is precisely the same as the effect on the body when blood stops circulating. It dies.

When 25 business executives were asked recently whether they planned a reduction of wages, they answered almost as one man: "No; reduction of wages would reduce buying power, and buying is the only thing that can bring a return of prosperity."

Every sensible person in America knows that good and bad times, in a land as rich as this one, are made by the public's state of mind.

When the people feel secure and hopeful, they spend their money and make good times; when they are frightend and without confidence, they quit buying and make hard times.

In other words, people who now suffer as a result of their own unnecessary caution can bring a return of prosperity when they will.

If every individual will increase his average daily expenditure by as little as ten cents—each adult spending an extra dime for each of the minors in his care—business will return to normal within a month and there will be work for all.

That increase of ten cents for each individual would give the business world a daily infusion of $13,000,000—almost 400 million of new trade in a month—enough to make every wheel turn again.

America dearly loves a fad and a slogan.

Why not, for once, adopt a fad that will pay dividends?

"Spend a daily dime."

THE MARINES HYMN, SLIGHTLY ALTERED.

("The Tom Thumb golf course, which the President has at his Rapidan camp, was constructed by United States Marines."—News item.)

I.

From the halls of Montezuma
To the shores of Tripoli
We fought our country's battles
On the land and on the sea;
But when battles they are lacking
And the world to peace pacts leans
Who builds golf links for Herb Hoover?
The United States Marines!

II.

Our flag's unfurled to every breeze
From dawn to setting sun,
We have fought in every clime and place
Where we could take a gun;
When work is done 'neath shot and shell
(Or on the putting greens)
You will always find us on the job—
The United States Marines!

III.

From the pesthole of Cavite
To the "ninth" at Rapidan
You will hear 'em shouting for us
When they need a handy man;
We're the watchdogs of a coal-pile
Or we did a magazine
And we build a Tom Thumb golf course
During moments in between.

IV.

From the School of Application
To the shores of Subig Bay
We've avoided golf and golfers
In a most ingenious way
But this half-pint course for Hoover
Is the hottest stunt we've seen.
For it answers to the question—
Why the hell is a Marine?

V.

Here's a health to the Marine Corps
And a health to Hoover, too!
Helping him perfect his putting
Is a thing we're proud to do
But the job it ain't exciting
And we hope it never means
Any permanent assignment
For United States Marines!

A BEAUTIFUL THOUGHT.

Miss America and Will Osborn of radio fame are engaged. They will go, obviously, on a honeycroon.

The Navy has a plane built to do 300 miles an hour. A great little vehicle to have around when you have reached the station and discovered it necessary to go back home for the brief-case.

Mr. Harvey Firestone, in a Boston speech, says that in the Edison test he gave a perfect mark to a boy who said that he would have rescued the guide, his sweetheart and himself. No boy, it is understood, thought of saying that he would save himself and send the survivors back a crate of tires.

Carnegie professor says that women resist heat better than men. Why not? They go around undressed all the time, don't they?

WHY NOT, INDEED?

"Why should there not be suffering among the unemployed as long as the destiny of the workers is at the mercy of labor leaders? As it is a well organized graft, why does not the Government take a hand in it?"—From a letter in the New York, Telegram.

OPPOSE BILLBOARDS.

Those engaged in the campaign against billboards, observes the New York Times, will welcome the support of the American Institute of Architects. It has just sent an appeal to all its chapters the country over, urging them to do what they can to help curb wayside advertising.

Recent court decisions, notably one in Indiana, have given encouragement to the movement by recognizing the esthetic side of municipal development. The Massachusetts Billboard Law Defense Committee hopes to get a ruling by the Supreme Court of the United States on the question whether outdoor advertising on private property within the public view can be constitutionally regulated.

There is no need to relax present efforts to curb this offense while waiting for the courts to have their final say. Some ancient offenders have already shown signs of repentance. Others have taken a public-spirited attitude. In English country life one oil company recently carried a full-page advertisement depicting a lovely bit of the English countryside. Below was the caption "This Company Does Not Advertise in Places Like This."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Former Secretary of Treasury Asserts Flexible Provision of Tariff Law Prohibits Protection and Adopts Democratic Scheme of International Competition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: After listening to the radio speech of my good friend, Senator Pess, with most of which I was more than pleased, I make the following good faith offer: I hereby promise to pay $1,000, on demand, to any one who will formulate a concrete example, or an imaginary case in which the Tariff Commission, acting within the law, can recommend an increase in rate of duty, whatever the need, beyond the point of pitiless competition. It is an indisputable fact that Republicans incorporated into the flexible provision of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, without modification or qualification, the exact formula by which the last Democratic convention proposed to subject all industry to "effective competition."

The senator correctly quoted the platform pledge of his party "to give the American market to the American farmer to the full extent of his ability to supply it" and promising that "American labor shall command the home market." These meritorious ends can be accomplished only by tariff rates giving every domestic producer, of average efficiency, some slight advantage in the market which he makes, owns, supports, defends, and has equipped himself in part to supply. And this very thing the flexible provision of the law expressly forbids.

I had written the distinguished chairman requesting that he give his hearers an example, such as I am offering a reward for, of failing so to do, to deny, explain or justify the substitution of international competition for American protection.

LESLIE M. SHAW.

People Opposed to Forty-Eight Liquor Laws by as Many Different States—Jim Reed's Platform Better Than Frank Roosevelt's.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Democrats must be hankering for another fall if they believe they can win with a wet candidate on an out-and-out "States' rights" wet plank. The average American may favor a wet candidate and a wet plank, but he will hesitate to sow dissension and discord between wet and dry States and wet and dry sections, even where apprehension exists over the way the Federal Government encroaches upon the rights of the States in many particulars.

Whatever of wetness is to be had must be uniform throughout the Nation. Even though the American people have had their fill of their "noble experiment," they will stand for only one law and not for forty-eight or more temperance laws by as many States. It will be easier for James A. Reed to stand on a solid, single wet plank, fashioned for all of the States, than for Governor Roosevelt to straddle many planks for the purpose of dispensing good lemonade to dry States and fine liquors to wet States. The stability of industry can not depend on the fickleness of voters. The "States' rights" idea would give a State the power to close in a subsequent election the doors the State had opened in a previous election.

The country will be greatly disappointed if the wet and dry issue again is allowed to overshadow other vital issues in another presidential campaign.

What Plans for the Next Great Starling War?—Birds Will Attack Washington in Force Next Fall.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Soon the starling pest will again be prevalent on Pennsylvania avenue. At present these birds are causing the ground keepers at Rock Creek Cemetery a great deal of trouble. The starlings will continue to roost in the trees of the cemetery until the arrival of cold weather, when they will come to the trees within the city limits for the purpose of keeping warm.

Now is the time for the city officials to put on their thinking caps and devise a good method for ridding the city streets of the starlings. Thousands of Washingtonians hope that some successful means of driving these birds out of the city trees will be discovered before the birds come back to their winter haunts. What other brilliant ideas do the city officials have up their sleeves besides trimming the sycamore trees along the Avenue and the placing of smudge pots in the trees and on the public buildings? Now is the time to create new and better methods for prosecuting the starling war.

Declaration of Independence of Clothes—Up, Men, and Shed Your Coats!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We men are but slaves to unthinking custom. The more clothes we wear, the more we have to wear. Let us build up and harden our bodies and not be mere mannikins who walk about like human clothes racks.

Is anything more absurd than a photograph of a man? He is just a suit of clothes with a face peering out like a turtle.

Why delude ourselves? We still have brains, even though we have little use for them.

Down with clothes slavery!

The City Should Water Its Own Trees, He Says.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am told the shade trees which beautify the city are under the city's care. If that is so, the city should water them, rather than ask owners of property to do so, as many of them have no convenient means of watering the trees. Yet the tree should be watered at once, otherwise many of them will soon be beyond help and beautiful Washington will be spoiled.

Hoover Attire Makes Garden Fete Informal

Visiting Bar Delegates Abandon Top Hats They Brought.

By JEAN ELIOT.

TOP hats brought from England—yes and France, Scotland, Ireland and Canada—will be taken home unused. They had been freshly ironed in preparation for the garden party given yesterday by the President and Mrs. Hoover for the foreign dignitaries, who are guests of the American Bar Association in Washington. But the word went round that President Hoover was to wear informal dress, so most of the men present, foreign and American, followed the lead of their host in donning the white flannel trousers and blue coat so popular in summertime.

Two or three silk hats were in evidence, however, with correct afternoon regalia. There was at least one gray topper, suggestive of Ascot and Epsom Downs, and several of the foreign visitors completed their outfits with cameras, of which they made good use.

Comment upon the fact that most of the Britishers attending the Bar Association meeting had brought their top hats along led to the confession that when the association visited London in 1924, most of its members bought spats for the occasion. And it was further intimated that after the garden party at Buckingham Palace, a climax to the festivities for the visitors, dozens of spats were found tucked away under the shrubs in the royal gardens. So America and Britain are quits.

Most of their guests had already assembled when the President and Mrs. Hoover made their way from the south veranda into the garden, strains of "Hail to the Chief" announcing their coming, and a group of White House aids, brave in white uniforms, preceding them. Greetings were first extended to the group of foreign guests, the President and Mrs. Hoover moving about among them and finding opportunity for a pleasant word with each. Afterward the others present were presented to the President and First Lady, who stood in the center of the lawn, with a long queue winding its way toward them.

In spite of the drought, which has played havoc round about Washington, the White House grounds are at their loveliest now, for the lawns show the effect of careful watering and masses of late summer flowers are in bloom. The scene yesterday was enchanting, with the stately executive mansion looming in the background, with the great trees casting long shadows on the grass and the sun making rainbows in the fountain, a fountain framed in masses of scarlet cannas. The Marine Band, in summer uniform of white and gray, played from a stand tucked away among the trees and the gay-striped marquees, from which refreshments were served, were focal points of interest and animation.

Mrs. Hoover wore a summery gown of chiffon, with rose-colored flowers splashed over a black background, and her picture hat was of transparent black crin trimmed in velvet. The President's military and naval aids made the introductions, the new president of the American Bar Association, Mr. Josiah Marvel, of Wilmington, Del., standing by to present the foreign dignitaries.

Prominent among these were Sir William Jowitt, British attorney general, and Lady Jowitt; Lord and Lady Macmillan, and Sir John and Lady Simon. M. Marcel Bloch, a French barrister, who has achieved national distinction in spite of the handicap of blindness, made the round of the garden under escort of his charming wife, a slim slip of a girl, who looked pretty as a pink in a frock of blue chiffon and a black hat.

Who was there? Well, all the bar association's foreign guests, with their women folk, a group 300 strong; members of the American bench and bar from various parts of the country, a generous sprinkling of Washington's legal luminaries, and such of the official contingent as are still—or again—in town.

One spied Vice President Curtis, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, and the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson, Secretary Mellon of the Treasury, and Secretary of War Hurley from the Cabinet group. The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, was also a guest, his tall figure looming above the crowd as he made his way across the lawn.

Mrs. Stimson wore a costume of black and white figured chiffon, its skirt dipping gracefully, and a smart black hat. Mrs. Robert Ash, in a flowing black chiffon frock, made with a cape and splashed all over with bright colored flowers, presented an engaging picture, and so did Mrs. George Maurice Morris, whose yellow chiffon garden party frock was topped off by a huge yellow hat.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. William P. McCracken, jr., Interstate Commerce Commissioner and Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison, "Governor" Campbell, new Civil Service Commissioner, and Mrs. Campbell, Judge Mary O'Toole, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Bright, Mrs. Henry E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Bowdoin Craighill, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Binns Tebbs, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, Mr. and Mrs. F. Regis Noell, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, Capt. and Mrs. Joel T. Boone and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Frank T. Hines.

Stimsons Entertain Today in Garden.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson, who came to Washington yesterday especially to take part in the entertaining for the Bar Association's foreign guests and who will be hosts at a garden party in their honor today, will return in a few days to St. Hubert in the Adirondacks, where they have been staying of late.

Dinner Honors Guests of Bar From Abroad

Toasts Given to Rulers at Attorney General's Function.

As a brilliant climax to a day crowded with activities, the foreign guests of the American Bar Association were entertained at dinner last evening at the Pan-American Union, Mr. Thomas D. Thacher, Solicitor General, filling the role of host in the absence of Attorney General Mitchell, who sponsored the dinner.

In recognition of the international importance of the event, toasts were drunk—in fruit punch—to the President of the United States, the King of England and the President of France. The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, was a guest at the dinner, as was also the Charge d'Affaires of France, M. Jules Henry; the Charge d'Affaires of Canada, Mr. Hume Wrong, and the Charge d'Affaires of the Irish Free State, Mr. William J. B. Macauley.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson were in the company of American officials asked to meet the distinguished visitors from overseas, as were Justice Willis Van Devanter, Justice and Mrs. Pierce Butler and the Assistant Attorney General, with their wives.

The program was broadcast over a national hook-up and sent out over a short wave length in order that the address of Sir William Jowitt, Attorney General of Great Britain, might be rebroadcast in England. This was the principal speech of the evening, addresses also being made by M. Henri Decugis, distinguished French barrister, and Mr. John Lord O'Brian, assistant to the Attorney General. Mr. Josiah Marvel, newly elected president of the American Bar Association, spoke a word of greeting, following a brief welcome by Col. J. Miller Kenyon, president of the District of Columbia Bar Association. Mr. and Mrs. Marvel came from Chicago, after attending the meeting of the Bar Association, to take part in the entertaining in Washington for the foreign visitors.

In the course of the dinner, Maj. Charles Trowbridge Tittmann, a lawyer by vocation and a musician by avocation, sang French, Scotch and Irish songs, with "The Road to Mandalay" chosen in compliment to the British guests. There was music by the Marine Band, which also played for informal dancing, following the dinner.

The guests were seated at small tables, with the lords of appeal and judges of the high court of Great Britain among those at the speakers' table.

On the close of their visit in Washington as guests of the American Bar Association Sir John and Lady Simon will go to Southampton, Long Island, to visit Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler at their summer home, The Corners. Sir John is chairman of the special commission on the government of India.

Miss Gertrude Richardson Brigham, who has been in New York the last year, will be at the Playhouse, 1814 N street, on Friday and Saturday next. On Sunday Miss Brigham is leaving, with Miss Mittie Burch and Miss Louise Reynolds, on a motor trip South, via Richmond, to Georgia. Miss Brigham will be assistant professor at Brenau College, near Atlanta, the coming year.

The Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills will give a dance on Wednesday evening, September 10, at their country home at Woodbury, Long Island, in compliment to Mrs. Mills' daughter, Miss Dorothy Fell, who is to make her debut in Washington next winter. Preceding the dance Representative and Mrs. Parker Corning, who also have a debutante daughter, Miss Mary Parker Corning, will entertain at dinner for Miss Fell, the party being given at their estate at Glen Head, Long Island. The two girls, who are chums and both of whom have wealth, position and distinguished pedigrees, will be among the much feted members of Washington's debutante group.

Mrs. Hoover Lunches With Women Group

Companions of Lawyer Delegates Feted at Hotel.

Mrs. Hoover attended the luncheon given yesterday at Wardman Park Hotel by the ladies' committee of Washington for ladies accompanying guests of the American Bar Association to the Capital. Mrs. Edward Everett Gann was also present and, being honorary chairman of the committee, received with the chairman, Mrs. William P. MacCracken, jr., and the vice chairman, Mrs. Frank S. Bright.

Guests, who had sought their places on arrival, rose when Mrs. Hoover entered. The First Lady was seated on Mrs. MacCracken's right, with Mrs. Gann on the left of the chairman, and others at this table were the Hon. Helen Tomlin, Lady Macmillan, Lady Wright, the Hon. Lady Macnaughton, Lady Jowitt and Lady Simon.

Hostesses at the other tables were Mrs. Bright, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. F. Regis Noell, Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, Mrs. Howard LeRoy, Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, Mrs. Frank Hogan, Mrs. Ralph Van Orsdel, Mrs. Charles Wilson and Miss Connolly.

After luncheon coffee was served on the veranda, the company breaking up into animated groups and many of the foreign guests having then the opportunity to be presented to Mrs. Hoover.

For this occasion Mrs. Hoover had chosen a smart ensemble of cocoa-colored crepe, with lace of a slightly lighter tone used on the bodice. Her hat was of brown straw, a becoming model with a deep brim. Mrs. Gann's costume was of beige lace, worn with a picture hat of matching tone. Mrs. McCracken wore a graceful gown of yellow chiffon printed in large figures and a hat of chartreuse straw. Mrs. Bright's gown was of soft gray blue chiffon, with beige lace outlining the decolletage, and she had on a picture hat of blue crin in the same shade.

Among the guests were Miss Jeeves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William John Jeeves; Miss Cuthbert, stepdaughter of Sir John Seymour Lloyd; Mrs. James Dale Cassels, Mrs. Lionel Leonard Cohen, Mrs. Frank Harvey Proud, Mrs. John Herbert Stamp, Miss Smith, Mrs. Edward Holton Coumbe, Mrs. Walter Frampton, Mrs. Maurice Pembroke FitzGerald, Mrs. Wintringham M. News has reached Washington of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, of New York, at The Cove, Beverly, Mass. The infant comes of a distinguished line, Mr. Lodge being the son of Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, of Boston and Washington, and the grandson and namesake of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. Mrs. Lodge is the former Miss Emily Sears, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sears, of Boston. Mr. Lodge, who served for a while in the Herald Tribune Bureau in Washington, is now on the editorial staff of the paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Fletcher will conclude their visit in Newport this week and will come to Washington, where Mr. Fletcher will take up his new duties as chairman of the Tariff Commission under a recess appointment. Ana Grisanti To Be Wed to Norfolk Man

Rites Will Be Celebrated in Caracas, Home of Diplomat.

The marriage of Senorita Ana Teresa Grisanti to Mr. William Conkright, of Norfolk, which will be solemnized on Friday in Caracas, Venezuela, is an event of much interest to Washingtonians. The daughter of Senor Don Carlos Grisanti, long Venezuelan Minister to the United States, Senorita Grisanti made her home here for a number of years and has many friends in the Capital.

The minister and his family are among the most popular representatives of Latin American republics who have been in Washington, and since their departure early in the summer they have been greatly missed. Senor Grisanti has been appointed Minister to the Vatican, and will leave Venezuela in September for his new post in Rome.

Mr. Conkright was formerly connected with the Pan-American Union, and is now with the United States Customs, stationed at Norfolk. He will bring his bride to Washington for a visit before they establish themselves in Norfolk.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair have come to Washington from Newport and are at the Mayflower for a few days.

Mrs. Goodloe Falconer has sent out cards announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Lois Falconer, to Dr. Lloyd Griffith Lewis, on Saturday, August 16, at Washington.

The ceremony took place in St. Alban's Church, the bride's mother giving her in marriage, and was attended only by a family group. The couple will be at home after September 15 at 529 North Wolfe street, Baltimore.

Dr. Lewis is a graduate of Hamilton College, New York, and of the Johns Hopkins Medical College. He is now connected with Johns Hopkins Hospital. The bride is a member of the Junior League of Washington. Mrs. Falconer is at present visiting in Lexington, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, of Chicago, have arrived in Washington and will be guests at the Mayflower for several days. Mr. Loesch is a member of the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement.

BUY BALE OF COTTON, IS PLEA OF GOVERNOR

Moody Urges Other States to Join Movement for Drought Relief.

$75 PER CAPITA COST

Austin, Tex., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Aid for farmers of the South, stricken by low prices and drought, was proposed by Gov. Dan Moody today in a "buy a bale of cotton" movement in which governors of all cotton States were asked to join.

The governor wired each Southern executive asking that they join in a Nation-wide plea to the public to buy a bale of cotton at 15 cents a pound, several cents above the current market price.

The governor estimated that it would be possible to take five million bales of cotton off the market and thus stabilize and increase the price, adding $375,000,000 to the pocketbooks of Southern farmers.

The investment to individuals over the Nation would be approximately $75, the cost of one bale. Taking the similar movement of 1914 as a criterion, Gov. Moody declared that every person who bought a bale would be able to get his money back. The $75 would be a loan with the bale of cotton as security, he explained.

The executive stressed two points in his proposals: First, that the governors' appeal be addressed, not only to the South, but to the whole Nation; and second, that "distressed" cotton, not under contract by cooperatives, be purchased.

He said he had consulted officials of the Texas Cotton Cooperative, operating under funds from the Federal Farm Board, and they had expressed no objections to the movement.

After he has heard from other governors of the South, Gov. Moody planned to issue a proclamation addressed particularly to the people of Texas and generally to the Nation. Other governors joining the movement probably would do likewise.

While plans for the movement have not been formulated, it was suggested that sectional and State campaigns might be launched.

AMERICAN EDITOR SEES INDIAN CRISIS

Richard Gregg, of Nation, at Politics Institute, Says Gandhi Is Power.

RAPS BRITISH CENSORS

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Richard Gregg, contributing editor of the Nation, a weekly publication, today charged that biased official reports come out of India. Mr. Gregg, who recently returned from a visit to that country, was a speaker at the Institute of Politics.

He said American newspaper readers who seek to learn about Indian affairs are placed at the disadvantage of reading censored news and biased reports by the British government.

The Indian question is not one of degree of readiness for self-government, but of whether the Indians have sufficient unity "to oust the British," he said.

Test of Nationalism.

That, he declared, is the test of nationalism and not uniformity of language. Since Gandhi's "march to the sea" dissension among Indian groups has decreased and the people are steadily grouping about the "personality of Gandhi and the national congress program," indicating a political unity of the masses.

Gandhi, he declared, "is no simple-minded ascetic." He predicted that "things are going to happen in India which will surprise the rest of the world."

Miss Cornelia Sorabji, a Parsee, reviewed the history of British administration in India.

"Any one who spent 35 years in that country, as I have, can not be but amazed at the work of the British administration," she said.

Sees Peril to Pact.

In the discussion of the London naval treaty at the round-table conference on armament limitation, Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, technical adviser to the American delegation at the recent naval conference, said, "Italy and France by not being signatories may jeopardize the extension of the treaty."

Dr. Paul Mantoux, director of the School of Higher International Studies at Geneva, declared Great Britain desires completion of the pact by some agreement between France and Italy. He said no agreement can be reached between those two countries by direct negotiations because the matter is a political problem.

For the quarter ending October 3, holders of Pere Marquette prior preference and preferred stocks were voted dividends of $1.25 a share, payable November 1. Common-stock holders in Pere Marquette of record September 8 will receive on September 30 a return of $1.50 for the quarter, it was decided.

DROUGHT MEETING IS HELD IN CAPITAL

to Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, said drought conditions in nearly 40 west Texas counties were "positively distressing" and demanded immediate attention.

"There is actual suffering for want of the necessities of life," the wire stated. "Lower freight rates for feed shipments is not adequate relief, for there is an absence of funds with which to buy feed. Ranges are barren and live stock is suffering."

Helena, Mont., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Major railroad lines of Montana were authorized today by the Montana Railroad Commission to establish emergency rates of two-thirds of existing local rates for hauling live stock and hay to and from areas within the State where drought has caused severe damage.

The roads also were authorized to contest speculation in grain and cattle at the disadvantage of the grower.

Virginia Rum Violator Is Caught in Washington

Back to Alexandria, whence he fled so precipitously 2b hours ago, goes one Barnhart Ware, Negro, who was doing a year's time on a road gang for having violated the prohibition laws of that city. Barnhart was caught here in Cullinane's court by W. E. Stein, superintendant of the Occuquan wharf last night.

Ware was sentenced early last night and he had served five days of his term. Now he will be sent to the State road gang where the surveillance is said to be stricter.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART

Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

THE CLIMAX.

"That's all then, isn't it, Dart? Though I can give you one entirely tangible bit of evidence, if you'd like it," said Kit. "You thought that the wind had damaged the wires, didn't you? Well—it wasn't the wind. The wires were cut. They were cut about five minutes before Hanna tried to reach your house. And even Lindy isn't resourceful enough to tell us where they're cut, are you, Lindy?"

She spoke again from that distant dream: "No."

"No. But I can tell you, because I cut them. Just at the head of the stairs near the telephone attached to the wall. I thought that it might be a pious scheme to keep well out of touch with the police. I cut out a foot of wire so that splicing it would be more of a job, in case it were discovered. Any of you any good at that kind of thing?"

There was a murmur of dissent.

"Well, fortunately for the lot of you, I'm a little better than good. I did a bit of line work abroad, before I went in the dispatch riding. There isn't much point in barring the police from now on, so I'll give you a hand with it. Suppose we get along now and see what we can do with it, Dart, do you see any reason why any of the girls should stick it out any longer? Get that child of yours tucked in, Joel."

Chatty, her lips tremulous, but her voice valiant, said clearly from across the room: "Good night, Kit, darling."

And Trudi's deep, charming voice, huskier than usual, said slowly:

"You're the best of us, Kit. Get some sleep yourself, why don't you?"

"I'll join you at the telephone in a minute or so, Baird—just as soon as I get Hanna to her room. I'm inclined to agree with you that the sooner we get in touch with the police the better for all of us under the circumstances."

Sherry said thickly from the doorway, "A darned sight better." He caught at the door frame, and added unhappily, "I swear to God I think it's all a rotten dream."

"No dream, old boy. Still, it's rather decent of you to think so." The red-headed young man paused abruptly in the doorway, cast a swift glance after the last couple vanishing up the dark stairs, a swifter one at the empty room, and lifted his voice.

"Think there are any pliers up there, Joel?"

"No; the tools are all in that closet to the right of the fireplace."

"Right you are. I'll bring 'em."

He crossed the room on the light sure feet that had carried him through dark places. Just short of the closet he wheeled, one hand on the chapel door, the other closed fast over something else—something dark and glittering. Joel Hardy stood staring at him incredulously from the doorway, his young face drawn and old, and then in one headlong bound he was at his side, catching frantically at his arm.

Oh, for God's sake, Kit! Kit, drop it, will you? We'll get you out of this. No jury in the world would convict you for killing that filthy swine——"

"Not for murdering a man who threatened to expose me as a card sharp?" He did not move, but something else moved, darkly, across the mockery of his face. "Boy, they'll hang me higher than Haman!"

"Oh, God!" The despairing face contorted in a frenzy of rebellion. "Then why couldn't you keep your mouth shut? You know damn well what she'd do to a jury, with that lovely little soft voice and those eyelashes. All she'd have to do is sit there looking like an angel made out of velvet and moonlight telling them how the hound tried to railroad her into marrying him, and in ten minutes they'd be howling like banshees and wishing to God they'd been there to carve his heart out themselves——"

"Joel, I've half an idea that you're exactly right! And that's undoubtedly why you'd stick Ray up there if you were in my boots, and let her bargain for her life with a dozen butchers and bakers and candlestick-makers rather than risk your own precious skin by suggesting that you knew considerably more about the murder than she did, I suppose?"

"Ray? I'd see them in hell before they touched a hair of her——" He halted, staring wildly at the grimly amused countenance a hand-breadth away. "Oh * * * Lindy, of course—sure, I get you. You can't let her pull this sacrifice stuff for you. I can't make my head work any more, but I can see that. Anyway, they'd none of them believe a word she said—a little, soft crap like that. * * * Though I'll swear she had me going for a minute at that."

Kit's Decision.

"You weren't the only one," said Kit, dryly. "She had every one else in the room going, though you'll hardly catch them admitting it now. She's rather an amazing child. Keep an eye on her for a bit, will you, Joel? This is going to hit her fairly hard."

"Kit, listen—juries these days don't hang any one—anyway, not if you've got a good lawyer; and we'll get you the best lawyer that ever stood a jury on its head. All they'll do to you is shut you up for a while——"

"Thirty or 40 years, say?" That old smile flashed, but in the startling whiteness of the face the eyes were black. "Forty years to find out whether the filthy hole that's my local habitation is two or three paces long? * * * Thanks all the same, but I can think of pleasanter ways out. * * * This way, for instance." He shifted the little thing in his hand, and the fingers on his arm clamped down, frantically. "Going to help me, Joel?"

The haggard young face glared back at him desperately. "What do you want me to do—kill you?"

"No. I want you to hold this chapel door for about 10 seconds. They'll all be piling back the second they hear a shot and I don't want Lindy to run into me—here. She's had enough. Only Larry's taken every damn key in the place and I can't lock it. * * * Joel, I've never asked a favor of any one else."

Joel dropped his hand abruptly and turned his face away.

"All right—go ahead. I'd a damn sight rather you shot me."

"You live to tell your grandchildren that one worthless devil lived to bless the day that you were born. Would you—— No, no never mind, some one's coming. Give me 10 seconds."

Lindy stood poised for a second, staring past the barrier of Joel's arms at the closing door. She flashed toward it on the wings of terror itself.

"Where was he going? What was that thing he had in his—— Let me by! Let me by! Kit!"

"Lindy, don't. Lindy, they'll hang him—he said so, himself. * * * Don't—don't, dear."

"Kit!" Above that frantic pounding, that frantic voice, rose other voices, drowned beneath its frenzy. "Kit, open that door. God, don't let him * * * don't let him * * * Kit, it's Lindy—wait—wait—wait—it's Lindy, Kit! Don't—don't——"

It cracked through the terrified clamor—clean, sharp, effortless, stilling it as abruptly as the trump of doom. And for a long moment, in that absolute hush, it seemed as though the sharp messenger of silence and death had sped home to more than one target—it seemed as though it might well have hit Lindy, clinging to the handle, her knees sagging beneath her—Joel, his face turned to the cool panel, his shoulders heaving—Gavin, halted short in his tracks, half-way across the room. It was Gavin who spoke first, moving quickly, his voice chilled steel: "Stand away from that door, Hardy."

An Escape Into the Dawn.

Lindy turned slowly toward him a face of such frozen terror that for a moment he flinched.

"No need for you to go in there, Lindy. Just let me——"

She swayed toward him, lifting a warning finger.

"Hush! What's that? * * * Listen——"

He heard it before her voice died away a faint but unmistakable, the put-put-put * * * put-put-put of a motorcycle getting laboriously under way—clearer, sharper, swelling to a comfortable roar * * *

"By God, he's done it!" yelled Sherry, his eyes bulging in his head. "Come on, you fellows—cut around to the back! Through the service quarters, this way—we can see by his lights which way he's gone."

He tore through the far door, wrenching it so that it rocked on its hinges, the pack streaming after him, galvanized to sudden and violent life.

Ray called wildly from the hall:

"Trudi—Trudi, we can see from the library windows, can't we? Help me open them—I can't reach."

"Better from the writing room; it has windows on three sides. We'll be sure to see them from there——"

"But Trudi, he can ride without lights—he said so himself. That's what he did in France. He'll get away—he'll get away! No one can tell which way he's going——"

Trudi said slowly from the doorway: "Which way? There's only one way the north trail to——" She halted abruptly, her eyes seeking the shadows across the hall. After a moment she laid a monitory finger across her lips, cast a swift glance around the room, empty save for the slim figure by the fire, and asked casually as she moved forward toward the voices and the shadows: "Coming, Jill?"

The girl by the mantel said quietly: "In a minute."

She dropped on her knees before the fire, scooped a little hollow in the embers with the hearth tongs, and dropped something in it—something that caught and flickered up in a rush of dancing flames. She knelt there, her face turned away from the bright burst—shivering as though it left her colder. At the light step behind her, she started so violently that Lindy came swiftly forward.

Jill asked: "Did he—get away?"

Lindy turned toward her eyes of black fire in a face of white flame.

The Lost Handkerchief.

"Yes—the motorcycle's gone. He must have used the north trail. But, darling, what in the world are you doing here? You should have been in bed a long time ago—look, the sky's getting lighter, and outside you could hear the birds——"

The girl by the fire said, not lifting her eyes: "Did you come back to look for something, Lindy?"

Something in her voice arrested the soft murmur, and after a long moment Lindy said in a strange little voice: "Yes * * * I came back to look for—a handkerchief."

Jill said: "You couldn't use that handkerchief, Lindy. It was—stained. It's there; it's burning."

Lindy whispered: "You had it—all the time?"

"That's what I came back to the room for, when Gavin caught me. I saw a corner of it when I sat in the chair by the window, and I started to pull it out—but it was * * * wet. All my fingers were red with it * * * That's why I nearly fainted."

"You've known ever since then?"

"Before then, I think * * * I've had it in my smock pocket ever since I've been so—so frightened."

"Jill, were you frightened of me?"

"No, darling. Frightened—for you."

The little figure in lavender and pearls slipped to her knees, swift and silent as water, her arms fast about that other kneeling figure.

"Jill—darling, darling, you always took care of us; you're so wise—you know everything. You know how far it is to Rio * * * and Samarkand * * * and the moon * * * Jill—Jill, how far is it to Las Cayas in the Bahamas?"

Dare Interprets the MODE

Art and true elegance are expressed in this ensemble of brown wool "eline," with its interestingly cut silhouette. (Courtesy of Jeanne Lanvin, Paris.)

Paris, August 26.

HO-HO, they never stay away from gray for long! There were hints and hints about it in the midseason showings of the couturieres in April and May, and now that the fall and winter collections are over, the final verdict is that there is more than a hint of it in the air now for the coming season. In fact, so strongly do the really important couturieres hint about it, that I, for one, predict a gray trend—and woe to the stocking and shoe and bag guys who don't in and manufacture gray accessories!

As M. Jacques Heim says, gray is an elegant color, and beige can never take its place in this respect. Women of distinction and elegance have always favored it, while women less sure of their taste have feared it. M. Jean Bangnin has always favored this color, even when he was almost alone of the Haute Couture to do so. He stresses the fact in conversation that for several years the grays have been much more beautiful and alive than the grays of mother's days, but adds that women as yet are not convinced of this and still hesitate about wearing this lovely color on the grounds of its coldness. This despite the fact that grays are no more cold than beiges, and less so, since they lend themselves to warm rose and yellow tones.

New grays, then, are in, and this is the only really new color for this coming winter and spring. The clever woman, upon reading this and knowing that we neavah give a bum steer to our deah publik, will go shopping around for shades of gray that suit her, and wisely outfit herself in this color before every one else does.

• • • •

Oh, yeah, and 'twas only 35 dollahs! Honestly, now, wasn't that a bargain? "Bargain!" hisses La Chic Secretary in her lady-like shriek. Well, it was—take your example, for instance, of paying $10 or $12 apiece for three gray bags that get dirty the first time you carry them, never clean properly, and cost a fortune to keep even semicleaned, and this one at that price in gray reindeer—which can be cleaned by yourself and fine sandpaper. In the long run, figure it out—and let's get back to work!

• • • •

Work means asking you if you have already sent your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you HOW to make those smart skirts and sweater tops that are so practical for autumn wear? Every tricky kind of a skirt is explained here, too—just send for the leaflet and see if you can't make all the skirts you would ever need from our directions!

• • • •

And a Jean Lanvin suit—you might know it! For she only could do such interesting things to a tailored ensemble, with discreet cutting of the material, subtle fullness, real chic. The dress has two pockets and skirts interest. The coat is three-quarter and large sleeved, and the material is brown woolen, with a weaving through it of colored threads. Nice?

• • • •

I'm telling you the flat white ermine fur belt I saw at tea the other day, worn by a luve-lee lady in divine black georgette, was too simply divine! The buckle was diamonds, you know they call that strass these days—and she wore a strass necklace with a pendant of ermine tails with this outfit by way of jewelry!

And a black bag that depended upon its novel shape for chic caught my dye, so I sketched it for you, too, strass clasps and all.

Of course, we're offering also the weekly Dare fashion letter in the Sunday Washington Post and we hope you're looking for it regularly.

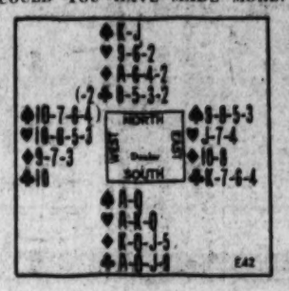
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE MADE MORE?



The above sensational hand was played recently in a game of Contract. South (the Dealer) bid three No Trumps and that ended the contracting; as a matter of fact, his count of 28 gave him ample strength to bid four No Trumps, and if he had done so North, with a count of 8, would have jumped to six. North was just short of the strength to jump a bid of three.

In Auction Bridge South would have been the Declarer with one No Trump.

West led a Spade, which South won with the Queen. South led two Hearts, retaining command of that suit; and then four Diamonds, the fourth won in dummy. Dummy led a Club and the Jack finesse won; but dummy could not be put in the lead again, and consequently East's King of Clubs took a trick and the Declarer made a small slam.

Could he have made all thirteen tricks?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The correct play was not particularly difficult: On the first trick dummy should have played the Jack of Spades, and closed hand should have won with the Ace and led two high Diamonds; when both adversaries followed suit on both tricks, there was only one adverse Diamond left which made it safe to lead the Jack and overtake with dummy's Ace. A Club then should have been led for a finesse, which would have succeeded. The fall of West's Ten would indicate that two more Club finesses were needed; but the Declarer had prepared for that emergency by having dummy's Six of Diamonds and King of Spades to overtake South's Diamond Five and Spade Queen, respectively.

In this way thirteen tricks would be made, although it would not have been safe to bid for a grand slam as the King of Clubs was just as liable to be in the West hand as in the East.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF August 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Fate will start to shift the scenes in your life on this date for a new act in your life's drama—only time can tell whether it be for a comedy or tragedy, much, however, depends upon yourself. Finances uncertain.

The child born on this August 27 will be a timid being, and will lack self-confidence. To overcome its self-consciousness, it should be discouraged from thinking of self at all—it should be taken out of itself. It will have a very unselfish nature, and will be warmly affectionate.

You are a rather discontented person because you desire more from life than you have the courage to demand. You allow your pluck to stay at zero, and you can not climb because fear has shackled your feet. You are afraid to go after the things you want, and naturally they will not come to you unasked. You do not tackle your jobs whole-heartedly enough—you do not trust your cause You are overconfident in others, and expect them to do that which only you can do yourself. "Whatever is attempted is never well done till the doer breathes himself into his deed."

You are not an optimist among the Jonahs; your spirits are usually a reflection of the atmosphere which surrounds you. You weep with the mourners, and laugh with the joymakers. You are too much affected by your environment for your own peace of mind and physical good. You are afraid of criticisms, of opinions and ridicule, and you wilt if they be adverse. Your mental courage is weak, your physical courage is strong. You have a very psychic and instinctive nature, and are uncannily intuitive.

You are naturally kind and very hospitable. You are passionately fond of animals, and they quickly sense that you are their friend. You are not a money hoarder, in fact it slips through your fingers too easily. Harmonious partnerships with Capricorn or Taurus people.

Successful people born August 27: Sophia Smith, founder of Smith College.

SPANISH RICE.
(Department of Agriculture.)

3 onions (medium size).
½ cup drippings.
½ cup uncooked rice.
3 cups fresh or canned tomatoes.
3 green peppers cut into strips.
2 teaspoons salt.

Slice the onions and cook until tender and slightly brown in the melted fat. Remove them from the fat, add the rice, which has been carefully washed and dried, and brown it. Then add the cooked onions, the tomatoes, the green peppers, and the salt; turn the mixture into a baking dish, and bake it until the rice and the peppers are tender. This will make six or eight average servings.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHERE A DICTATOR FAILS.

MUSSOLINI, in furtherance of his chauvinistic policy, called on the prospective mothers of Italy to manitain a high birth rate. Whatever else he orders in Italy he seems to be able to bring about. The Fascisti organization seems to be unable to reach the mothers. In a report on populations of various countries in 1927 the Eugenics Review lists five countries as having a higher excess of births over deaths than had Italy. Spain ranked on a par with that country in spite of a high death rate on the one hand and no Fascisti on the other.

The failure to obey the orders of Mussolini was somewhat in evidence in Rome itself, but Turin actually had a death rate that was higher than its birth rate, and the women of Milan and Genoa were not much more obedient to the dictator. However, the excess of deaths over births is not the only method of measuring decadence of national vitality. Additional yardsticks would need to be applied before we could say whether the vitality of the average Italian was up to standard.

Measured by the excess of births over deaths, Great Britain still is to the good, but we find far-seeing men in that country very much unhappy over the outlook. In a recent report the British secretary of state for war wrote there had been such a fall in physique of the Briton as to render it difficult to recruit the British army. Sixty-one per cent of the applicants are rejected and of these rejections 91 per cent are for medical reasons. This is true in spite of the fact that the standards have been lowered twice in recent years.

The Eugenics Review reports the school teachers as saying the physiques of the British school child are steadily becoming poorer. The Times quotes Prof. McBride as saying the standard of health is slowly falling. The reference is to physique, physical strength and health habits—the British death rate still shows a tendency downward though it is scarcely perceptible.

The Goofus Ape kissed the Baboon's sister.
He kissed so hard he raised a blister.
"I'm glad," it's reported Miss Baboon said,
"He didn't raise a callous on my face instead.
For I won't mind a blister at the Goofus Ball.
But if I had a callous I couldn't go at all,
For I'd hate to have people look at me and say,
'Who's that hard faced creature, anyway?'"

Scientific Designing

makes Kotex inconspicuous under clinging summer frocks

Kotex now has rounded, tapered corners which eliminate awkward bulges and assure a snug, firm fit.

THERE are times when you hesitate to wear your lightest, thinnest summer dresses . . . unless you know about Kotex.

Kotex is the sanitary pad that is designed for inconspicuous protection. The corners are rounded and tapered. Sides, too, are designed to fit with the greatest possible comfort.

Wear Kotex without a worry, then, under any frock you possess. Wear it on hot summer days, when you've reduced your clothing to a minimum.

Light, cool, comfortable

There's another way in which this careful shaping brings wonderful relief. Kotex is so much more comfortable. There's no unneeded bulk to pack and chafe. No awkward bulges to grow terribly uncomfortable.

Kotex is always light, always cool, always comfortable. This is largely due to its remarkable filler—Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. Cellucotton is five times more absorbent than cotton. This means your Kotex pad can be five times lighter than any cotton pad, for the same absorbency and protection. America's leading hospitals—85% of them—choose this same absorbent for important surgical work.

Kotex deodorizes. And it is disposable, just like tissue. Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes . . . safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

STOCKS MOVE AHEAD AFTER WEAK START

U. S. Steel Climbs 4 While Index Gains 2 Points as Sales Rise.

NEWS NOW CHEERFUL

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Stock market bulls at last found something they could sink their teeth into in today's industrial news and share prices registered the best gains in nearly a fortnight, U. S. Steel common reaching the highest price since the June slump.

The market was a wishy-washy affair until toward midday, when vigorous pool operations in some of the amusements and specialties influenced extensive short coverings. The list had already made substantial progress when financial news tickers reported late in the session that U. S. Steel had steeped up ingot production from 62 to 66 per cent of capacity, which was seized upon as the first tangible evidence of seasonal business recovery.

A long list of shares closed 2 to 6 points higher. The price index of 90 representative shares gained nearly 2½ points. Trading quickened substantially in the last hour, but total sales of 1,746,950 shares were only 146,720 above yesterday's turnover. Brokers reported some improvement in the character of the buying, as orders from sources not heard from frequently of late made their appearance occasionally, but professional operators still failed to attract any conspicuous outside folowing.

Steel Mill Output Gaining.

The estimated increase in steel mill output was the first emphatic upturn since the resumption of activity after the midyear inventory shutdown. Freight car loadings as reported for the second week of the month also showed a gain over the previous week. There was still a feeling in conservative quarters, however, that autumn improvement in business would be moderate. Nevertheless, over a considerable period of time, the stock market has been inclined to work higher in September, although often selling off later in the year. Rumors current recently that a statistical advisory service was about to issue a bullish broadside materialized in the form of a few conservative buying recommendations, suggesting that clients place about one-fifth of their funds.

The motion picture stocks were helped by dismissal of the Warner Bros. receivership petition, although the dismissal was based merely on the technical contention that the bill of complaint had not been properly verified and sworn to by the plaintiff. Coincident with publication of the midyear balance sheet of Fox Film, showing that the company was once more in a strong position, aggressive market sponsorship appeared for the stock, as well as for Loews.

The advance embraced most groups, although the rails improved only moderately, motors made little or no headway, and the farm implement, copper and oil shares, after sagging early in the day, did not show any decided comeback. United States Steel sold up 4 points to 171¼, and closed at the top. It sold within a point of the figure early this month.

Southern Railway Rises.

Columbian Carbon and Case gained about 6 points and Byers, Eastman, Worthington Pump, and Westinghouse Electric, about 4. Shares closing 2 to more than 3 higher included North American, Fox, Loews, General Theaters Equipment, Warner Bros., Air Reduction, Atchison, American Telephone, American Can, Electric Power & Light, Corn Products, McKeesport Tinplate, Corn Products, New York Central and Southern Railway.

Calumet & Arizona, which a year ago was paying dividends at the rate of $2 quarterly, announced after the close that the 50-cent quarterly dividend, to which the rate has been reduced, would not be paid. The stock, however, closed only a fraction lower. Michigan Steel lost nearly 5 and Union Pacific 3 points.

Commodities were irregular. Cotton futures rallied about $1.50 a bale, and sugar futures gained 4 to 7 points as result of news of plans to stabilize the industry. Wheat, however, lost 1¼ to 1¾ cents a bushel, reflecting increased world visible supply, and corn saged ½ to ⅞ of a cent.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to ease, notably the Latin Americans. Sterling cables also saged ⅛ to $4.86⅛. The French franc, however, held around the gold point, and further shipments of the metal to Paris are expected.

AVERAGES OF BONDS HIT NEW 1930 HIGHS

Many Rail and Industrial Issues Are Sold Around Year's Best Prices.

UTILITY SECTION STRONG

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—For the fourth successive week the price level of bonds was lifted to a new high today as measured by the averages, principally on the strength of utility issues which experienced a wide demand from savings banks and other industrial sources. Many railroad and industrial bonds also sold around their best prices of the year. The volume of trading was the largest in three weeks.

Despite the prospect of some firming of money rates the latter part of the week coincident with holiday currency requirements, time money rates were pared today, and some dealers reported commercial paper rates at the lowest figure in several years. Call money held at 2 per cent.

The easing of credit stimulated the demand among institutions for investment bonds, the low open market rates discouraging the employment of funds there. Investment holdings of Federal Reserve member banks now total $6,340,000,000, the highest figure since the system was established.

Treasury Issues Sag.

Somewhat paradoxical was the easy trend of Treasury issues which usually are the first to reflect changes in the money market. Treasury 3¾s were heavily sold, and lost about ¼ of a point. Other Treasury issues sagged. Liberties were steady.

In the foreign section, the feature was heaviness of Latin-American issues which were unsettled by the continued decline of Peruvian bonds, all of which rested on new bottoms at the close.

The increased inquiry for utility obligations proved beneficial to an extensive list. American Foreign Power 5s, Brooklyn Union Gas 5s and American Telephone debenture 5s were the most active, with the two first-named reaching new highs for the year.

Public Service Electric & Gas 4½s, Ohio Public Service 7s, North American Edison 5s, New York Telephone 4½s, Hudson County Gas 5s, California Gas & Electric 5s were other bonds to register new peaks.

Western Maryland Drops.

With the volume of trading greatly expanded buying of some railroad bonds was the best in weeks, with the heaviest activity in Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s, Great Northern 4½s, Erie 5s of 1975, Missouri Pacific General 4s, New Haven Refunding 4½s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, Reading Co. 4½s, all of which made good gains, several to new 1930 peaks. Western Maryland 4s was one of the most active, selling off ⅝ at the close. Many other high-grade carrier liens climbed higher, with about a dozen or more reaching new high levels for the year.

Convertible and warrant bonds turned upward, the improvement coincident with the bullish sentiment in the stock market. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s rallied 1½ points from its low. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s moved up 1 point. Utilities Power & Light 5s with warrants were strong. Railroad convertibles, which are less sensitive to the trend of stocks, held firm.

Columbian Carbon and Case, normally wide movers, gained about $6 a share, while issues closing $4 to nearly $5 higher included Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse Electric, Worthington Pump and A. M. Byers. Furthermore, American Can, North American, Atchison, Air Reduction, Fox, Loews and General Theater Equipment gained about $3 a share. Issues closing $2 or more higher included American Telephone, Curtiss Publishing, Electric Power & Light, New York Central, Sears Roebuck, Corn Products and Warner Bros.

Trading was light, however, the day's total transactions aggregating only 1,746,950 shares.

Offering will be made tomorrow of $7,500,000 Allegheny County, Pa., 4½ per cent bonds, priced to yield from 1.75 to 3.90 per cent.

WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 27, 1930. 13

NATS, UNABLE TO RETAIN LEAD, BOW TO MACKMEN, 10-9; ROSEDALE WINS CITY PLAYGROUND TITLE BY ONE POINT

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—In the office of the public museum in the city park of Saratoga there hangs a portrait of a young man with a small sprig of brunette whiskers on his chin, glaring indignantly upon a scene of desolation and decay. The public museum was once a gambling casino, and the young man in the portrait was John Morrissey, the founder of the house, who must have been an uncommonly versatile person. He won the American heavyweight championship at the height of a short career in the fighting ring, in the meat-hand days he served a spell in the United States Congress, and when he had retired from the ring he started the Saratoga race track and founded the local gambling industry, which now has degenerated into a furtive, outlaw racket.

Against the wall opposite his portrait stands John Morrissey's big safe, which was manufactured to his order, the strongest safe in the world outside the banks and the national treasuries at the time, with its four thick doors swung open revealing the successive repositories where he bolted his valuables away at night. It is a clumsy old strong box, judged by modern standards, and visiting petermen, sojourning at Saratoga for the races and the waters of one kind and another, go to see it and estimate just how long it would take them to open it by modern methods.

Modern Gentlemen Could Crack It.

It does look formidable to the lay eye to this day, but I suppose there must be gentlemen among the visitors to Saratoga these days who would guarantee to crack it with a common can opener in ten minutes for a worth-while side bet. Upstairs, in one of the old gaming rooms where John Morrissey strolled among his patrons at night, there is another safe, an iron-bound box about half the size of an orange crate, which Mr. Morrissey used for his petty cash at the horse track, where he made book, maintained discipline and, in a general way of speaking, ran the entire show by hand.

Two negro workmen used to lift the cash box out of the casino into John Morrissey's carriage and carry it into his office at the track every afternoon and lift it back into the carriage and up the steps to the casino every evening when the races were done and the festivities of the night were about to begin in Morrissey's gilded halls of chance.

The public museum contains an odd jumble of historical souvenirs and common attic trash from the garrets of Saratoga. There are lead bullets from the battlefield of Saratoga and rusty wrought-iron hinges from the forts, a collection of tarnished epaulets, uniform buttons, old clothes, cartridges and a case of cracked snakeskins, presumably from copperheads or dwarf rattlers taken among the rocks in the vicinity.

Morrissey Rated Low Nowadays.

At the head of the grand mahogany staircase on the second floor I met a smiling, middle-aged woman who had a small stack of copies of a Sunday school publication at her elbow, possibly for sale, although I did not inquire. She was very obliging to the limit of her knowledge, but all she knew about John Morrissey was that he had been a prize fighter, a Congressman and the builder of the present public museum. Nor did she know where I could find any book about him. He was long dead. The casino had passed into the possession of the late Richard Canfield, a great gambler, worthy of the house, and Mrs. Canfield, upon her husband's death, had conveyed the house and grounds to the city of Saratoga for a museum and park.

Not from anything the lady said, but from her very ignorance of John Morrissey, and she an official guide in his old place, I gathered that they low-rate the man nowadays because gambling since his time has become a lawless pursuit, dependent upon the criminality of public officials for its existence. Morrissey therefore became a sinister, though influential, figure in the history of the place retroactively.

Joined California Gold Rush.

The modern record books on prize fighters mention Morrissey only incidentally, but some of the histories recall that he was born in Ireland in 1831, that he weighed 175 pounds, that he fought Yankee Sullivan and John C. Heenan, and died in Saratoga in 1878. Like Heenan and Sullivan, he went to California for gold in 1851, where Sullivan, who sems to have been a very disorderly character, even for his time, was hanged by the Vigilantes. But John Morrissey, from all that I can gather of him, was a man of remarkably strong character, an organizer, a politician, a busines man ingdale, in 1929. Charles Cannon, of Happy Hollow, tied the record set by Gorin, of Park View, in 1928 in the 100-yard dash of 10 4-5 seconds.

Aubrey Martin, of Rosedale's championship team, had to do some fast stepping to win the 115-pound class 70-yard dash race, but he was equal to it and smashed the record held by Lemon, of Weightman since last year. Lemon had another mark smashed. It was in the 100-pound class 60-yard dash and Ed Poole, of Columbia Heights Playground, was the culprit to destroy the Weightman lad's second mark. Poole covered the distance in 7 seconds, clipping one-fifth of a second off of Lemon's record.

J. Newman, of Columbia Heights, had a part in the record breaking, although he added but three-fourth of an inch to the 100-pound class high-jump mark formerly held by Clark, of Weightman, who leaped 5 feet 1 inch in 1928.

35 Starters in Half Mile.

The meet started at 10:40 and was completed at 3:40, despite the numerous entries in each event that caused many heats in each dash event. A record number of boys faced the starter in the unlimited half-mile, 35 stepping off at the sound of the gun. Although no new record was made in this event the time was good considering. William Ketchum, of Iowa avenue, won in 2 minutes 11 3-5 seconds.

In the 70-pound class 50-yard dash 92 boys struggled for the three coveted places that were rewarded with Post medals, and 62 youngsters tried the new playground event, the Tehe.

Allowing for the slight margin of victory, it was the opinion of all the directors that entered teams in the meet that Coach Ben Kail, of the winning squad, deserved to win. Kail won The Post cup while at Georgetown several years ago and has been attempting ever since to bring it to Rosedale. Tom McCarthy, who coached the Johnson boys to their wonderful effort only to be nosed out by one point, was the first to congratulate Kail.

RANKING NET PAIRS WIN MATCHES

Coen and Coggeshall Only Seeded Losers in U. S. Tourney.

By W. R. KING.

BROOKLINE, MASS., Aug. 26 (A.P.). — The second round matches of the national men's doubles championship were played for the benefit of seven of the eight seeded American teams and the top-ranked British entry, at Longwood today.

The dent to the seeded list was unavoidable because the draw entangled two favored teams in the second round. Wilbur Coen, jr., Kansas City, and Harrison Coggeshall, Des Moines, ranked sixth because they reached the finals of last week's Newport Casino play, played unsteady tennis and bowed to the top-ranked Britishers, J. S. Olliff and F. J. Perry, the only foreign team to continue in the tourney. The Midwestern youngsters frequently have trouble holding their services, and this flaw in their games was responsible for their defeat by scores of 6—3, 6—4, 6—3.

Wood and Shields Forced to 5 Sets.

Another seeded team had trouble. Sydney Wood and Frank X. Shields, who were seeded seventh, just managed to edge out two crafty veterans, E. W. Feibleman, New York, and J. B. Fenno, Boston, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4. The youngsters had to play a postponed first round match and they were a bit tired when they took the court to face Feibleman and Fenno.

The remaining six matches in the second round ran true to the tennis form that has been knocked toupsy-turvy so many times this season. George Lott and Johnny Doeg, the defending champions, overcame Barry Wood, Harvard's great all-around athlete, and his college mate, Richard Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., 6—2, 6—2, 9—7, and the second seeded team, Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, the American Davis Cup doubles team and Wimbledon champions, advanced by eliminating Lieut. G. W. Smith and Lieut. R. M. Watt, jr., the United States Navy entry, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2.

Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, the 1927 champions, crushed M. T. Hill and H. L. Johnson, of Boston, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3.

Tomorrow's quarter-finals will have

Cards Stave Off Rally To Defeat Reds, 3-1

Cincinnati, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cards stayed in the National League race today by outpunching the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, but they had to stave off a ninth-inning rally.

Wild Bill Hallahan held the Reds to four hits for eight innings and his mates scored twice in the eighth to give him his first lead. Heilmann and Crawford singled to start the ninth and Hallahan contributed a wild pitch, but Heilmann was forced on Gooch's sacrifice. Stripp struck out and Walker flied.

Wilson's 44th Homer Ties Ruth and Record; Cubs Win

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Hack Wilson, the stocky slugger of the Cubs, smashed the home-run hitting record of the National League today by hitting his forty-fourth circuit blow of the year to climax Chicago's 7 to 5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The homer, made off Larry French in the seventh inning, exceeded by one the record set by the youthful Chuck Klein, of Philadelphia, in the final game of the 1929 season. It also put Wilson on even terms with Babe Ruth in the struggle for 1930 home-run honors.

Husky Hack also singled and hit a sacrifice fly to drive in four of the Cub tallies. The single was made with the bases full in the fifth inning, driving in two of the five runs the Cubs scored in that frame to settle the game. Except for that one bad inning, French and Sheriff Blake had a close mound struggle. Blake allowed twelve hits to nine, but was effective in the pinches. Lloyd Waner hit a homer for Pittsburgh.

Johnson Clinging to Hopes For Pennant for Nationals

By FRANK H. YOUNG,
(Staff correspondent of The Post).

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Manager Walter Johnson and his charges have been claiming all along that the pennant race is not yet over and that they would be there or thereabouts at the finish. The fact that the Mackmen won today's game has not made the Nationals change their minds and they were comparatively enthusiastic as they boarded a rattler for home early this evening.

"We were naturally disappointed that we were unable to make it three in a row over the Mackmen," said the Washington skipper, "but we have not yet given up hope and we will be out there battling to the finish. I've been in the game for a good many years and know that conditions can change so fast in baseball that the Mackmen's seven - and - a-half - game lead, with the season still more than a month to go, isn't big enough to permit the Athletics to do any loafing.

"Of course, conditions are such that we can't win the pennant without any help, for some of the other teams have got to beat them while we are winning ourselves. I'm playing the old percentage that they will have a slump before the finish, for all teams do and they really haven't had one yet. If we can gain three or four games on them in the course of regular play, both the boys and I are confident that we can do the rest by beating the Athletics ourselves in the remaining two games we have against them.

"The Macks seemed to have our 'goats' at one stage of the race, but we have shown in taking two of the last three games that we have overcome this, and all I ask is that the showdown is to be decided between

Nats Must Win 22 of 28 Games To Tie If Mackmen Take 13 of 25

WASHINGTON'S pennant chances were dealt a severe jolt yesterday when the Nationals lost to the Mackmen.

Now trailing by 7½ games, the Nationals face a herculean task in their bid to overhaul the Athletics who have but 25 more games to play. Twenty-eight more contests remain on the Washington schedule.

The present standing of the teams:

	W.	L.	Pct.	P.
Philadelphia	86	43	.667	25
Washington	77	49	.611	28

Should Philadelphia win 13 and lose 12 of its remaining games, Washington, in order to gain a tie by the finish of the season, would be forced to win 22 of its remaining 28 games. The effect of yesterday's defeat is illustrated in the hypothetical figures. If Washington had won it would have had to win only 20 out of 28 to gain a tie if Philadelphia won 13 and lost 12.

The Nationals meet the Athletics in two more games, but are not favored by the remaining schedule inasmuch as it calls for seven more contests against the third-place Yankees, while the Mackmen meet the Yankees in only five. The Nationals have six games to play with the last-place Red Sox while the Mackmen will meet the Red Sox in seven more contests.

Hadley Pounded Out in Fourth After Nats Lead, 6-3.

Earnshaw Retires in First During Five-Run Assault.

ited to the Johnsons but two of the Macks' fifteen were homers while as many more were triples, and these extra-basers alone accounted for seven runs.

It was one of those ding-dong affairs, with the Nats jumping into a five-run lead and then battling like sin to hold it. Neither of the starting pitchers lasted long, Earnshaw disappearing in the midst of the Nats' opening attack, while Hadley could not stand prosperity, and after granting three runs in the first and getting into trouble in the next three frames he was excused with one gone in the fourth.

One was gone when the Nats opened their barrage in the first, Rice, Manush and Cronin singling in rapid order. These blows netted one run and another was scored when the Mackmen failed in their effort to turn Judge's roller into a double play. After Judge stole second Earnshaw walked West and Bluege to fill the bases and Spencer and Hadley then proceeded to empty them, the catcher's single scoring two and Hadley's the other.

Macks Retaliate With 3 Runs.

In the home half the Mackmen retaliated with a three-run splurge, this resulting from Bishop's opening one shot, Cochrane's single, Simmons' triple, which cleared the bases and Foxx's air sacrifice.

The Nationals got one of these back in the second on Rice's double and Cronin's single, while the natives had to be satisfied with an unavailing threat, Rommel's double and two walks having filled the bases with two out.

Hadley was in more hot water in the third and finally was wished out of the game in the next frame, due largely to wildness. With one gone, he walked two, wild pitched them to third and second, respectively, and had three successive balls called on Cochrane when Liska came to his aid. He escaped at a cost of but one run, this scoring on Cochrane's sacrifice fly.

Rommel Pounded in Fifth.

Rommel, who had relieved Earnshaw, was given his bumps in the fifth, which saw the Nats score thrice to make the score 9 to 4. Two were out when the Johnsons started their onslaught. Then Bluege and Spencer singled in order and scored the first marker by staging a nobby double theft. Liska surprised by singling his catcher home and, when Myer came through with a one-baser, Quinn relieved Rommel, and Rice singled home the third counter of the round.

The next scoring came in the sixth when the Macks counted twice. With one in the morgue, singles by Summa and Simmons put the runners on, while Foxx's triple off the right-field wall sent them scampering home. Then came the eighth and, quick as a flash, the verdict was snatched from the Nats' hands.

In the Wake of the Game

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Aug. 26.—Myer opened the game by hitting the first ball pitched mighty hard. It struck the ground to the left of Earnshaw and would have been a hit but for the fact that it took a bad hop and suddenly shot directly at Bishop. Then Rice, Manush and Cronin hit safely in rapid succession.

Judge showed plenty of foot in the first, beating out Bishop's throw to first for an attempted Philadelphia double play by a matter of inches. This would have ended the inning with only one run over.

Bishop's single opening the game for the Mackmen was a drive which shot between Hadley's legs. The pitcher deflected it toward short, but Cronin had no chance to make the putout.

Simmons' triple, which scored two of the Elephants in the first, ordinarily would have been good for but two bases, but the ball did not bound truly off the right field wall, hitting a pillar and skidding toward center. This extra base gave the aliens another run, putting the runner in a position to tally on a sacrifice fly.

Rice did some real sprinting to turn his drive to center opening the second into a double.

West walked his first two times up, drawing one pass from Earnshaw and the other from Rommel.

Hadley got in a hole with two out and Rommel up in the alien second grooved one, the pitcher smacking it for two bases. After Bishop walked on four successive balls Hadley pitched but one strike while passing Summa to fill the bases. Ad Liska was warming up at the time, but Johnson, after a talk with Hadley, decided to let him pitch to Cochrane and he wiggled out of the hole.

Myer scratched a single off of Rommel's glove in the third, but died trying to pull a delayed steal.

It looked as though Miller would get a hit on his grasser between second and first in round 3, with Simmons on first at the time, but Myer managed to knock down the ball and to recover it quickly enough to nail the batter at Judge's corner.

Rommel made a nice play to retire Manush in the fourth, taking Foxx's toss with his bare hand at arm's length while running at top speed to cover first.

With one gone in the fourth Hadley walked both Bishop and Summa and then advanced both on a wild pitch. When he gave Cochrane three successive balls he was excused for the day and Ad Liska took up the burden.

West went back almost to the fence in center for Cochrane's looper in the fourth, and Myer then bobbed up with a fine stop and peg to toss out Simmons to end this round with Summa crossing the plate at the time.

Foxx made a nice stop of West's hard roller to rob the fly hawk of a hit in the fifth.

Rommel messed any chance the Mackmen had of preventing the Nats'

AMERICANS AND BRITISH CLASH ON TRACK TONIGHT

U. S. Favorite In Meet at Chicago

Superiority in Field Events, 2 Relays, Recognized.

Huge Crowd Expected to See Nocturnal Engagement.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—After a round of banquets, speeches and parades, track aces of the British Empire and the United States today went through brisk, polishing workouts for their important duel of spikes on historic Soldier Field.

Today's preliminary program resembled more of a peace conference than an assemblage of track and field stars but prospects pointed to one of the classic struggles of the cinder paths when the mercuries of the two English-speaking nations clash in their miniature Olympic games under the arc lights of Chicago's lake front stadium tomorrow night.

Each team, selected solely on the basis of actual performance under fire, packed more than enough possibilities to romp away with any track and field meet. Each was determined and each was confident of victory. Sixty-six of Uncle Sam's fleetest and sturdiest composed the American team's personnel; the British forces were composed of 58 English stars and 10 from John Bull's dominions.

U. S. Heavy Favorite in Field Events.

Because of their recognized superiority in the field events, the Americans ranked as favorites tonight. They expected to win all six field events, lose an equal number of running races and come back to capture the deciding 400-yard relay and 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay. Fourteen events will be run in all with an exhibition 100-yard dash tossed in to thrill the crowd, which is expected to be one of the largest ever to attend a track meet in the United States.

The loss of Percy Williams, 1928 Olympic champion, in the 100 and 200 meter champion, blighted British hopes. The British star pulled a tendon in the finals of the 100-yard dash of the Empire games at Hamilton and was out of the field.

The American team met the Britons at the depot on their arrival this morning and the two teams paraded through the loop, led by notables in the sport world and a band of Scottish bagpipers. At noon the teams were guests at a luncheon at which Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach, was the principal speaker. Another banquet was held tonight.

No indications were given tonight as to the exact line-up of the teams.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The Amsterdam Claiming Stakes, at a mile and a furlong, seems to be at the mercy of the Fitzsimmons entry of Adequate and Hornpipe, with Adequate probably the better of the pair, but either should be able to win from the other.

Only seven are to start, and of this field there are two entries, the other being DAIL and BEGORRA. MACEDON is top weight and should be the contender. His last race was good and he has worked well. DAIL has raced little in some time, but if fit, has speed and should be third. BEGORRA'S races have been bad, indicating he is a quitter and probably is a mud horse, if any kind.

The Fitzsimmons entry will be a close price, with the probability that HORNPIPE will be withdrawn. SCOT FREE ran well Monday, but quit early in the race as if he were suited better for a sprinting distance. DAIL should get in the money.

First race—TRANSFORMATION seems the best of an ordinary lot of 2-year-olds in the opening race, claiming. She ran fifth to SYDKA in the Consolation, but was not urged in the stretch, having become tangled in a large field. BATTY has shown little, but has worked well and may get second money. FLAMMA has run with better horses, and her last should give her an outside chance here.

Second race—FAIRFIELD is the class of the steeplechase, and probably the best jumper of the Greentree Stable since JOLLY ROGER has kind of gone back. He has no recent line, but is selected on last year's racing. The Salmon entry of FAIR CLASS and HERMITAGE will be the contender, with preference for FAIR CLASS. DEVILKIN should take care of the others.

THIRD RACE—The third race is a handicap, with the best field of the day. JUDGE SCHILLING, top weight, at six furlongs, seems invincible, and would have beaten MR. SPONGE in his last start at six furlongs, but the Widener horse caught him in the last furlong. SARAZEN 2D has about rounded into form and with 111 pounds to 124 for the Spreckles horse should be a sharp contender. The Fair Stable horse is better in mud, but JUDGE SCHILLING would not start if the track should become heavy. RAPID TRANSIT, the king of Miami, has had a long rest and should figure in the race. He has much speed.

FIFTH RACE—DAIL is picked in the fifth. He also is entered in the feature, but has a much better chance to win this, both in distance and class of the opposition. GUILDER and MY SON are rated the contenders. Recent races of GUILDER show he is fit. GUILDER was beaten two noses by ATHEL in his last start. MY SON has rested up and should be in the money.

SIXTH RACE—The Lady Owner's Handicap completes the card. It is for 2-year-olds. Mrs. Payne Whitney's COMIC looks best, with SUNNY LASSIE the contender. Next may be Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' ST. AGNES. TARZAN has worked well, and the other starters are THE GEN and FRIAR BACON.

The Hopeful Saturday will be third on the program, and the Saratoga Cup will be fourth, having been advanced from fifth in order to accommodate the broadcasting of the two races, getting them close together. GALLANT FOX, FRISIUS and GONE AWAY worked for The Cup yesterday.

The corrected time on GALLANT FOX was a mile and five-eighths in 2:49. Fractions: 48, 1:01, 1:14, 1:25, 1:42, 2:08, mile and a half, 2:34 3-5, 2:49. FRISIUS will be coupled with GALLANT FOX in The Cup, and the Ziegler horse, GONE AWAY, will start. The field will not be over six. The National Broadcasting Co. will put the two races on the air, and Bryan Field, of the New York Times, will be at the mike.

CALVARY NINE ROUTS TRACTION IN SERIES, 28 TO 0

Church Team Pounds Out 25 Hits

Blanked by Davidson, Railway Nine Is Out of Series.

Calvary Scores 7 in First Inning; Taylor Leads Attack.

*Eliminated.

SLUGGING the offerings of two rival moundsmen for 25 hits and benefiting from 8 enemy errors while Davidson twirled brilliantly, the Calvary Nine yesterday scored a 28-to-0 victory over Capital Traction in a six-inning game of the Week Day Series on the Terminal diamond. As a result, Capital Traction was eliminated from contention, for this was its second loss and the series ruling provides that a team losing twice shall be dropped automatically.

The game lost all elements of a contest after the second inning when Calvary batted around to chase seven runs over the plate. Kilroy started this frame with a double and ended it when he rolled to short, but for a time it appeared that the side never would be retired, as the entire Capital Traction defense blew up, with Pitcher Van Doran committing a wild pitch and a balk.

First-Baseman Taylor Makes 4 Hits.

Taylor, playing first base for the winners, shone brilliantly with the bat, collecting four hits in five times up. Kilroy pressed him closely for the honors, getting a single, double and triple in six attempts. Goodwin and Ball also hit safely three times apiece, while every player in the Churchmen's line-up made at least two hits.

Capital Traction could do virtually nothing with Davidson's pitching. McDaniel and Harding being the only two to register hits, each making one.

Van Doran gave way to Mehalic on the mound for the Carmen in the fifth when another Calvary bombardment netted eight runs.

In today's game, Pullman and D. C. Repair Shop, which are tied with Tile Setters for the series lead, will clash.

Canzoneri Outpoints Hess by Wide Margin

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.). — Tony Canzoneri, of New York, former world's featherweight champion, outpointed Goldie Hess, of Los Angeles, in a ten-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium tonight. Canzoneri weighed 132, Hess 135½.

Canzoneri gave Hess a bad beating about the body in the first round and had him swinging wildly like a novice. Hess got his bearings a bit in the second round, but absorbed some more punishment about the body and went to his corner somewhat groggy from a wicked right to the jaw.

Canzoneri easily maintained his margin in the third, fourth and fifth rounds, but the sixth was even, as Hess, making his best showing of the night, took the offensive and opened up a cut over Canzoneri's right eye. Canzoneri won the last four rounds as he pleased.

George Washington Coaches Inspect Grid Training Camp

To Make Decision Today on Camp Letts Site; Sexton to Be Head Mentor of Freshman Squad.

PREPARATIONS for the football season of George Washington University were given their first official impetus yesterday when Assistant Coaches Max Farrington and Len Walsh and Head Freshman Coach Jean Sexton made a visit to Camp Letts, Md., the probable site of the Colonials' preseason training camp scheduled to open on September 8.

This trio, who arrived recently from the West, where Head Coach James E. Pixlee is still vacationing, were to decide definitely today whether Camp Letts is to be the George Washington camp. They indicated before departing on the inspection trip that there was little doubt as to its selection. Camp Letts, a summer post of the Y. M. C. A., is located about 11 miles from Annapolis on the Rhode River.

Pixlee to Arrive Next Week.

Head Coach Pixlee is expected to arrive here next week, when his assistants will have gotten everything in readiness for the actual start of practice.

Between 40 and 50 players, most of whom were members of the crack 1929 George Washington freshmen eleven, will be invited to report for training. During the preseason drills, which will last until the university terms opens September 22, Coach Sexton will work with the varsity candidates. After that date he will devote his entire time to the incoming freshmen, among whom are said to be several outstanding scholastic gridmen from the Middle West.

Sexton last fall divided the coaching of the freshmen with Farrington, but the latter now is delegated to duty with the varsity. Coach Walsh will take charge of the varsity line and Pixlee will direct all departments while giving especial attention to the back field.

Ambitious Schedule for Freshmen.

George Washington's freshmen schedule of games is probably the most ambitious ever arranged for a Colonial first-year team. Included are games with the Pittsburgh and Citadel yearlings—new in George Washington football relations — besides games with Georgetown and Catholic University freshmen and the Navy "B" squad. The last-mentioned will be played at Annapolis on Thanksgiving Day, the others on Washington fields.

Bobby Jones' "Lady Luck" Seen as Victory Guarantee

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 26 (A.P.)—Bobby Jones' friends believe the same power which enabled him to win three major golf tournaments this year will carry him to victory in the fourth at Merion next month, when the national amateur is played.

Bobby and his close friend, O. B. Keeler, Atlanta Journal golf writer, were guests at the Atlanta Rotary Club here today and Keeler gave lady luck or "whatever you want to call it" much of the credit for Bobby's two victories in England and in the American open at Interlachen.

Keeler told of Bobby's belief that an "invisible power" had watched over him in these tournaments. "After Bobby had holed an 8-foot putt to beat George Voigt in the British amateur he said he believed that no matter how he hit the ball it was sure to reach the cup. An invisible power was watching over him."

The golf writer told of how brilliant shots, aided by luck, had helped Bobby* to pull away from the field enough to win both the British and and American open tournaments.

Not only America, but Great Britain also will be pulling for Jones to win the amateur, Keeler said. He told of a letter from a friend in London which contained portions of a note written by a former Parliament member to a noted clergyman asking that prayer be offered for Jones in the American open in the "battle of light against the forces of darkness." The next day Bobby shot a 68.

Bobby spoke briefly and said that in the future he would be more careful what he told Keeler.

The triple champion is playing several rounds of golf each week in preparation for the amateur starting September 22 and plans to leave for the tournament site in about two weeks.

Manor Women's Golf Is Won by Mrs. Pray

Women members at the Manor Club yesterday played in an 18-hole, medal play, handicap event, Mrs. L. C. Pray winning with a score of 94—19—75. The low gross pride was won by Mrs. J. T. Powell, whose card was 49—43—92.

At the Manor Club last night, golf in the darkness was played in a four-ball match in which Al Treder, the club professional, and W. R. McCallum were paired against Harry G. Pitt, of the Manor Club, and J. B. Murphy, of the Columbia Club.

The match, which started at 8 o'clock, was for the purpose of demonstrating a new invention consisting of an electric light attached to the belt of each player, which casts a light upon the ball, while fore-caddies, also equipped with lights, endeavored to locate the ball after it had been played from the tee or from the fairway toward the green. Only nine holes were played, and although the exhibition was merely the cooperation of local golfers in a business proposition, quite a number of mem-

LAMAR GIVEN BEATING BY GALLAGHER

Marty Wins in 8 of 10 Rounds as Boston Fans Jeer Bout.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 26.—Marty Gallagher, of Washington, scion of the Democratic Gallaghers of the Capital, and Henry Lamar, representing the aristocracy of the Nation's seat, engaged in their fourth contest for a seat on the heavyweight throne in a feature contest of the Boston Garden program of fighting at Braves' Field tonight with Gallagher winning the decision after ten rounds of fair and mediocre fighting.

Too frequent clinching by Lamar helped to spoil what otherwise might have developed a good contest. The gathering, estimated between 4,000 and 5,000, became impatient at times at the slow and indifferent fighting of the big fellows and expressed its displeasure several times with a series of jeers.

Referee Works Hard in Clinches.

Referee Jack Sheehan had the hardest night's work of his officiating career trying to keep Lamar pried apart from Gallagher.

Gallagher was willing and eager to fight and carried eight out of the ten rounds. While there was no breathtaking exchanges, what actual fighting was done Gallagher contributed. He forced the issue throughout and when he wasn't being held in a vice-like grip by Lamar was piling up a commanding lead in points. Lamar previously won two decisions over Gallagher, together with holding him to a draw in another contest, but there was little that Lamar did tonight to indicate he would prove a threat for heavyweight laurels.

Lighting Uniformity In Night Play Urged

Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 26 (A.P.).—Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals said today uniform intensity of candle power used in illuminating baseball parks for night games would be urged before the National Baseball Association during its winter meeting.

Rickey came here for an inspection of the Greensboro Club of the Piedmont League, Cardinal Farm. He expressed the opinion that the "ground hazard," due to shadows, was the only handicap in night baseball, but this could be overcome by proper lights.

the two of us. If it so happens that this is the case, Washington fans might just as well get in their bids for world's series seats, for we'll surely take the A's in our remaining two games with them."

Washington's task ahead is not an easy one, for the Yankees must be met seven times — in Washington Thursday, Saturday and Sunday and in New York on September 3, 4, 5 and 6. True, the Nationals have beaten the New Yorkers in twelve of the fifteen games already played, but "Bob the Gob" Shawkey has a powerful combination, and past performances don't mean anything and the Nats can look for plenty of trouble, especially as the "big towners" have set beating out the Nats for second place as their goal.

The Nats lost their first-place chances—if they actually are lost, although the players say that they are not—on their two Western trips, and it is on these same fields that they must put themselves back in the running, for they end the season in the "wild and woolly" sector, except for a lone game with the Mackmen in Washington on Sunday, September 28, which is the final game of the season.

Seven More Games at Griffith Stadium.

This latter game, by the way, is one of only seven more to be played in Griffith Stadium before the curtain finally is rung down. The Nats draw blanks on the schedule tomorrow and Friday, playing the Yankees in Washington on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. The Boston Red Sox will be there for a Labor Day double-header and the only other games will be Sabbath battles against the Athletics on September 7 and 28.

Harry Child, Nat rookie pitcher, received the glad tidings this morning that he is a daddy, his wife having given birth to a baby girl yesterday. Mrs. Child and the newcomer, both doing nicely, thank you, are at Baltimore, and the young papa was given permission to drop off there en route back to the Capital City and to remain there until Thursday morning.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

double steal in the fifth, with Bluege on the scoring end. The pitcher reached up and knocked down Cochrane's peg to second. He recovered the ball quickly, but not in time enough to nail Bluege at home. The ball was there ahead of the runner, but the collision between the runner and Cochrane spun the catcher around so that he could not put the ball on Bluege in time.

Liska did some exceptionally fast fielding in throwing out Dykes at first on the latter's high bounder off the plate in the fifth canto.

West's double in the sixth was a liner over Dykes' head. It was not put to any good use.

Liska started a nifty double play which helped him out of a hole in the seventh. He took Bishop's bounder and got it to second in time for the Cronin-to-Judge combine to nail the batter. Both Dykes and Pinch Hitter Schang had singled in this session.

Following successive homers by Cochrane and Simmons, which knotted the string in the eighth, Liska appeared to go completely up in the air. After pitching three successive wide ones in a row to Foxx he gave way to Brown, who finished what the subway hurler started.

Brown was ordered to pass Boley intentionally, filling the bases with one out in the home eighth. Connie Mack then sent McNair to the tee for Shores, and his sacrifice fly let Foxx bring home the run which put the A's in front for the first time during the game.

Cronin came in fast to make a brilliant stop and lightning peg to turn in the final out in the Macks' eighth, with the sacks filled at the time.

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 26.—Washington, D. C., baseball champion of the Union Printers, continued its march toward a third consecutive pennant when they lambasted St. Paul by the lop-sided score of 15 to 4.

Like St. Louis yesterday, St. Paul was no match for Washington and from the third inning, when the wrecking crew of the champions went to work, it was a foregone conclusion that today's game was just another in the bag of the champs.

Roudabush was the mound selection for Washington. In addition to pitching a brilliant game he, with Holbrook, were the heavy hitters. Roudabush on four visits to the plate poled out a double, two triples and a single for a perfect average. Holbrook caught one in the alley in the fourth inning with the bases loaded and ent the ball over the fence, the longest hit seen on Magee Field this season. McPherson also hit a homer. Coe and Schliek, for St. Paul, hit for the circuit.

Washington got 17 hits to St. Paul's four. St. Paul did not score until the fifth when a cluster of base on balls, a hit and an error sent four runs across. The Washington team has played the best and most consistent ball in the two days of the tournament. Unless the champions become lost in some of Pittsburgh's cloud banks and smoke, they will return to their home city retaining the pennant for the third consecutive year.

In other games, New York defeated Indianapolis, 25 to 6, making the high score of the day. Chicago followed with a 22 to 3 victory over Cleveland. Cincinnati overwhelmed Boston 16 to 0, and Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 14 to 9.

THEATER OWNERS' MUSICIANS' PARLEY STILL IN DEADLOCK

Rialto Postpones eRopenin to September 6, Until Matter Is Settled.

FACTIONS ARE TO MEET AGAIN THIS AFTERNOON

If Decision Is Not Reached by Monday, Houses Wlil Open Without Music.

While Washington's theater owners and musicians were still hopeful of a settlement of their controversy despite a four-hour session yesterday which resulted in no material progress, the music situation in the Capital has already caused two postponements of the reopening of the city's seventh downtown first-run house.

The Rialto, Universal's theater in Washington, was scheduled to reopen in August, but pending settlement of the music question deferred reopening until Labor Day. When it was seen that little hopes for a settlement was in prospect before the present contract expires on August 31, Universal officials postponed the relighting of the house until September 6. They announced that they did not care to have their biggest attraction open while the music question was still unsettled. The house is scheduled to reopen with "All Quiet on the Western Front." The Rialto employs nine musicians under ordinary circumstances.

Yesterday's conference between representatives of the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association and the Musicians Protective Union, held in the Warner Brothers' offices in the Earle Building, will be continued this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Both Sides Encouraged.

At the close of yesterday's meeting both sides were noncommittal as to what progress, if any, had been made. However, it was regarded in theater circles as encouraging that the opposing factions had agreed to meet again today.

"The way is still open for a settlement of our problem," said A. J. Brylawski, president of the Theater Owners Association, following the session. Neither he nor A. C. Hayden, president of the Musicians Union, would make any statement as to whether or not the conference had eliminated any of the difficulties which confront both sides.

The musicians are seeking a renewal of their present contract, at the same wage scale, and including the clause which permits the union to set the minimum number of men to be used by each theater. On the other hand, the owners have declared themselves ready to negotiate a new contract, even to the extent of discussing a wage scale, provided the clause on the minimum number of men is eliminated.

"Living Music" Upheld.

Yesterday's afternoon meeting of the owners and musicians followed a morning session of the Musicians Union. The union had before it a proposal made by the managers of local houses at a conference Monday afternoon. After a short meeting the musicians issued the following statement through John E. Birdsell, secretary:

"The board of directors of the Musicians Protective Union, at its meeting this morning, reaffirmed its position of unalterable opposition to the elimination of living music from the theaters of this city and is preparing to do all in its power to prevent the loss of such living music to the theater-going public of Washington."

Unless an agreement with the musicians is reached before midnight Sunday, Washington theaters will open Monday without musicians, union projectionists and union stage hands. Stage hands were served two weeks notice at the same time musicians received their notice after preliminary conferences had failed, while the projectionists have been ordered out in sympathy, by their national organization. This move will be made despite the fact that last Friday the theater owners and projectionists reached an agreement on terms of a new contract.

SHAPIRO ARRESTED ON FRAUD CHARGES

Realty Man, Now Under Six Indictments, Accused by Five More.

HIDDEN TRUSTS ALLEGED

Jacob Shapiro, 29 years old, of Meridian place near Fourteenth street northwest, was booked at police headquarters yesterday on five additional charges of false pretenses in connection with the so-called sale by him of property encumbered by alleged hidden trusts

The five complainants were Daisy B. Kelley, of 1708 Hobart street northwest; William J. Slattery, of 1823 Otis street northeast; Helen C. Espey, of 421 Marietta place northwest; William J. Haste, of 3615 Eighteenth street northeast, and Clarence M. Hughes, of 3625 Eighteenth street northeast.

Shapiro, president of the Joseph Shapiro Realty Co., was named in a seventh indictment made by the District grand jury, which was reported yesterday. This indictment links him with the sale of the premises at 1734 Irving street northwest to Minnie W. Reed on May 1, 1928. It charges him with false pretenses in failing to disclose a "hidden trust" of $2,000 on the property.

Shapiro already was under bond of $14,000 in connection with six cases returned against him. He had pleaded not guilty to all the allegations.

The various charges followed closely after an investigation by the Senate District committee made just before Congress adjourned.

He expects to return to Washington next Saturday. During Col. Grant's absence, Capt. Edward N. Chisholm will act as director of Public Buildings and Parks. The next meeting of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, of which Col. Grant is executive officer, is being planned for September 19 and 20.

Charged with reckless driving, James F. Carter, of I street northwest near Fourth street, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday and fined $100 on a charge of reckless driving.

13TH STREET PLOT TO BE FIRE HOUSE

Three Lots at K Bought by District for Companies Nos. 3 and 16.

$120,000 IS PRICE PAID

Three lots at Thirteenth and K streets northwest were bought by the District yesterday for $120,000 as a site for a fire house to replace two now located elsewhere in the downtown area.

Engine Co. No. 16, now at Twelfth and D streets northwest, and Truck Co. No. 3, now at Fourteenth street and Ohio avenue northwest, will share the building to be erected on the newly-acquired site at 1008 to 1012 Thirteenth street.

The land, on which now stands the old Donald Hotel, was bought from Adam A. Weschler through the Munsey Trust Co., after considerable negotiation by Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, who weighed the merits of three proposed locations at length before final selection of the site was made.

The purchase gives the Fire Department a plot of 8,810 square feet of land, assessed at $58,142. The hotel building is assessed at $43,000, making a total of $101,142. The price of $120,000 paid by the District amounts to 118.6 per cent of the assessed valuation, and constitutes a price of $13.62 per foot for the land.

Under the terms of the transaction, the former owner is permitted to use the premises, rent free, until such time as the District is ready to start construction of the new fire house, when 30-day notice to vacate is to be given.

Swimming Pool Hours To Be Curtailed Soon

After Labor Day, the swimming pools at the McKinley and Francis Junior High Schools will be open only from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 6 o'clock at night, it was announced yesterday by F. W. Hoover, general manager of the Welfare and Recreational Association of Public Buildings and Grounds, Inc.

Swimming will be discontinued altogether at the pools after September 15, it was announced. Morning and night swimming has been the program during the summer months. A last opportunity to swim during these hours will be given this week. The McKinley pool is at First street and Lincoln road northeast, the Francis School pool is at Twenty-fifth and N streets northwest.

Man Stricken in Car On Fresh Air Ride

Leslie Ross, 63 years old, of 3204 Seventeenth street northwest, was removed yesterday from a trolley car at the Capital Traction Co. car barns at Fourteenth and Decatur streets northwest and taken to Emergency Hospital suffering from hemorrhage Doctors consider his condition serious.

A young woman who accompanied Ross said that they were taking a ride to get fresh air.

Fire Equipment, Chief Says, Not Fitted to Water Trees

Force of Current, Watson Asserts, Would Only Damage Growth, While Linking Up of Hose Lines in Streets Would Seriously Block Traffic.

The suggestion made by "J. L." in a letter to The Post yesterday that the Fire Department should water trees in the business section, was described as impractical by Chief George S. Watson.

While he declared that some means for protecting the thousands of valuable trees in the District against the effects of the drought is vitally necessary, he pointed out that utilization of Fire Department equipment for the task not only would result in blocking traffic, but also would be likely to damage the trees sufficiently to offset all the benefit of the sprinkling.

"Fire hose," Chief Watson pointed out, "is not like garden hose. It takes men to handle that stuff, and lots of them, not only because of the weight of the hose itself, but also because of the force of water going through the nozzle.

"With fire hydrants placed as they are, it would frequently become necessary for long lengths of hose to be stretched across the streets, blocking traffic, and this would be a serious annoyance as the necessity for continuing the sprinkling sufficiently long to wet the earth through to a depth of 3 inches would mean that streets would be blocked for long periods while sprinkling was being done.

"Aside from these facts," Chief Watson pointed out, "I believe that the force of water pressure going through a hose the size of a fire hose would be so great that it would uproot the trees. Perhaps some method of sprinkling the trees by means of portable tanks and smaller hose could be arranged, but I do not believe that would be a matter for the fire department to undertake."

TAG APPLICATIONS TO BE MAILED OUT BEFORE JANUARY 2

Commissioners Make Plans to Speed Issuance of Auto Licenses.

NUMBER OF AGENCIES TO DISTRIBUTE BLANKS

Employes of Divisions Will File Requests With Their Chiefs.

Application blanks for 1931 license tags will be mailed to automobile owners who send stamped addressed envelope to the superintendent of licenses in advance of actual issuance of tags which will start January 2, it was decided by the Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Arrangements also will be made with the chief clerks of the various Government departments, with banks, "and other agencies that may be deemed advisable," to have automobile owners obtain their license applications direct from these agencies, it was announced.

In addition, it was decided, owners will be notified by radio and the newspapers when and where and how they may obtain application blanks and get their tags.

Seek to Avoid Confusion.

"By this method a large number of persons will be advised that their applications may be procured without necessitating a visit to the District Building, and will not only result in more efficient service to the public, but will lessen the number of persons calling at the office for applications. It is thought likewise, that if persons take their applications home, they will be more apt to fill in the data correctly, avoiding confusion during the actual issuance of the tags in January."

The actual issuance of tags will begin at 7:30 o'clock on the morning of January 2, the office remaining open until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. On succeeding days the office will open from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m., except on Saturdays when the closing hour will be 3 o'clock.

Chief clerks of the various departments will be requested to ask the employes of their divisions to file their applications with him, and during December he will send these applications to the personal tax office by messenger for the insertion of the amount of tax to be paid by each applicant.

Clerks to Receive Checks.

Upon completion of the application, each chief clerk will be advised by telephone, when he may then send to the personal tax office for the completed application and, if he desires, may have each applicant give him a check covering the amount of the tax and the license fee which may be sent after January 1 to the license office and the tags obtained.

Applicants for tags for trucks, taxicabs, buses, livery cars, rental cars and Government department "pleasure" cars will be requested to file their applications in the personal tax office early in December. As soon as the applications are received the valuations will be placed on the blanks and the tax computed.

The applications will be kept in separate bundles, each bundle to be numbered and marked with the applicant's name, and a corresponding coupon issued to the applicant for procurement of his tags when they are ready.

Licenses Must be Held.

These applications will be stamped with an appropriate license number, and the tags put aside with the office coupon attached showing the total amount of the tax and license fee to be collected before the tags are issued. Applicants will be advised as to the amount to be sent to the collector of taxes, and these amounts may be sent any time on or after December 15 and the tags issued to the applicant at that time.

Applicants receiving their tags prior to January 1, however, will be required to sign agreements that no 1931 tags will be used by him prior to January 1. This advance issuance arrangement, it is pointed out, will be available only for owners obtaining tags for cars in quantities and will not apply to individual owners of private cars, who may obtain their applications any time in December but must wait until January 2 for their tags.

Court to Review Policeman's Case

District Bench to Decide if Man Was Illegally Dismissed.

The District Supreme Court is to decide whether William D. Davis, of 1318 Park road northwest, was illegally dismissed from the Metropolitan police force.

This was indicated yesterday when Justice Jesse C. Adkins issued an order requiring the Commissioners of the District to show cause September 5 why the records of Davis' trial before the Police Trial Board should not be certified to the court for such action as prayed for.

Davis wants to be restored to his status on the force and also wants the court to quash all records of the proceedings, claiming he is innocent of the charges and was not legally tried.

Capital Couple Obtains License to Be Married

Leo Thomas Joseph Naughton, 27 years old, a bank teller, of 631 Ingraham street northwest, and Miss Lucinda Isoline Hess, 26 years old, of 762 Quebec place northwest, yesterday obtained a marriage license in New York for a wedding they said would be solemnized immediately.

Mr. Naughton was born in Washington, the son of William and Mary Snee Naughton. Miss Hess is a native of Fairmount, W. Va., and is the daughter of George H. and Dora Kelley Hess.

Clerk Asks Bankruptcy; Liabilities Are $238,191

Fred H. White, of 2106 N street northwest, who lists himself as a clerk, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a bankrupt.

White lists his liabilities as $238,191.81, of which he states $229,980 is secured by trusts on property. He lists his assets at $10,422. Attorney H. J. Sweeney appears for the alleged bankrupt.

BUY IN WASHINGTON COUNCIL TO ASK AID OF CAPITAL GROUPS

Commissioners to Be Asked to Back Bill Loosening Contract Limitations.

PROPOSAL WOULD FAVOR HOME-TOWN COMPANIES

Civic and Labor Bodies Will Be Enlisted in Campaign to Keep Business Here.

Leading men of Washington's industries, meeting yesterday at a luncheon of the Buy-in-Washington Council, agreed to request civic and labor organizations to join them in an attempt to keep a larger portion of the Government buying and building contracts here. A formal request to the other bodies is being framed by a special committee of the council.

The District Commissioners will be asked to indorse a bill, which will be presented to Congress, giving them more freedom in the granting of these contracts. They will be given a leeway of 10 per cent of the amount of the contract to favor local firms. That is, if the local bidder is not more than 10 per cent above the minimum bid, it will be within the Commissioners' power to make the award to the Washington firm.

Unanimous in Agreement.

Several States have such laws, evidence before the council showed, and the members present were unanimous in their agreement with the advisability of asking such protection for this city. "Never, in my experience with civic affairs, have I seen such wholehearted agreement as was shown yesterday," Mr. E. J. Murphy, chairman of the council, said.

Those present at yesterday's meeting included John Newbold, John Poole, Col. Robert N. Harper, Mark Lansburgh, John P. Colpoys, Henry Stringer, C. Melvin Sharpe, Frank Hight, William Eynon, Thomas Grant, and the chairman, E. J. Murphy. It is hoped to have local organizations lined up in time to secure the Commissioners' indorsement of a bill to be introduced early in the sessions of the next Congress.

Discuss School Contract.

The council discussed the contract for a new school, costing about $400,000, which was let to an out-of-town firm. Only the sand and gravel for the new building will be bought in Washington, and the labor used will be largely from away from the city. Only $10,000, it was estimated, will be spent in Washington.

The council is attempting to have officials of the Standard Oil Co. agree to have their new building built by a Washington firm. The Shell Oil Co., they say, already has agreed to have local contractors do all its building in the area.

Eaker Will Fly With MacNider

Pilot to Use Auxiliary Aluminum Leg to Ottawa.

Aided by an auxiliary aluminum leg which will enable him to operate foot controls of an airplane despite a broken right ankle received when forced to use a parachute to leave a falling plane, Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Army pilot, today will fly Hanford MacNider, new Minister to Canada, from Washington to Ottawa.

Minister MacNider will be the first American diplomat of such high rank to go by airplane to his new post. Mr. MacNider and Capt. Eaker are old friends and the minister would have no other pilot for the flight than Capt. Eaker.

The latter yesterday tried out the device prepared to ease any strain on his broken ankle, which is still in a cast, and found that he could control the plane perfectly. The flight will be made from Bolling Field.

Possession of Liquor Nets 180 Days in Jail

Two liquor cases were presented yesterday to Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica, acting chief liquor prosecutor in Police Court, and both were admitted.

As a result Mrs. Etta Beck, of M street northwest near First street, was arraigned on a possession charge, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. Her bond was fixed at $500.

Thomas West, Negro, of Clarks court northwest, pleaded guilty and was sentenced by Judge R. E. Mattingly to serve 180 days in jail. West also was charged with possession of liquor as the result of a police raid.

Anonymous Tip Leads To Police Liquor Raid

An anonymous tip to police headquarters yesterday resulted in the confiscation of sixteen cases of alleged liquor at an apartment on Q street near Sixteenth street northwest.

Sergt. R. J. Leach, head of the vice squad, and a group of his squad raided the place but found no one on the premises. Inquiries failed to reveal the lessees of the apartment.

Woman Scrawls Note; Ends Life With Gas

Body of Mrs. Leo Connors Found Dead in Kitchen by Neighbors Who Investigate as Telephone Call Fails to Elicit Response.

Mrs. Ruth P. Connors, 35 years old, was found dead yesterday in the gas-filled kitchen of her home on Twenty-fifth street near Pennsylvania avenue southeast. All the jets of the stove were turned on and the door was locked.

Mrs. Connors was found by friends whom she had called earlier in the day and to whom she talked despondently. Later in the afternoon they called the house by telephone and received no answer. At this they became alarmed and went to the home.

The building was filled with a strong odor of gas and they summoned police when they were unable to gain entrance to the kitchen.

The body was found huddled over the kitchen table on which rested a scrawled note which the woman had apparently written while suffering from the effects of the gas.

The writing was so irregular that the words could not be made out, but it was apparently unfinished. It had been written on the back of two envelopes. Police took possession of the missive.

Leo Connors, husband of the dead woman, was unable to assign any reason for her act. He said that she had not been in ill health and there had been no friction between them. They are childless.

Both the rescue squad and Casualty Hospital ambulance responded, but the woman was dead when they arrived.

The body was cold, and it was said that she had been dead about an hour. She was found around 6 o'clock, and her husband said that he had seen her about 4 o'clock and she seemed in good spirits.

The husband of the dead woman is better known to Washington sportsmen as "Chuck" Connors. He was recently proprietor of a filling station.

After viewing the body of the woman and hearing the circumstances of the death, Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide. No funeral arrangements have been made.

RECORDS ATTAINED BY MODEL PLANES

Frank Salisbury Succeeds in Keeping Craft Aloft for 14½ Minutes.

OTHER MARKS OUTDONE

Keeping a model seaplane in the air for nearly fifteen minutes, Frank Salisbury broke a record for the District of Columbia at Bolling Field yesterday in the second day of the District of Columbia Model Aircraft Tournament.

Young Salisbury, who is in the ace class, also broke a record on the first day of the tournament with an indoor flight at the Macfarland School. The time of his seaplane flight yesterday was 14 minutes 32 1-5 seconds. The 1929 record, held by Robert Towles, was 3 minutes 23-5 seconds.

Record model seaplane flights were also achieved by three other young fliers. Lloyd Bushing flew his plane for 9 minutes 24 3-5 seconds, Everett Meeks, 8 minutes 18 seconds, and John Sullivan, 6 minutes 10 seconds. The record flights were attained in spite of the new ruling requiring model seaplanes to float on the water on all pontoons.

So swiftly did the little planes dart through the air yesterday that judges had to chase about the big flying field in automobiles to keep up with the miniature seroplanes. Some of the planes flew completely out of sight and were not seen again.

Young Salisbury broke another record yesterday for dynamic models, establishing a new official high mark of 15 seconds over his previous high record of 10 1-5 seconds. Three other fliers entered the ace class at yesterday's meet because of new records. They were George Leffler, now flying in the A Class; Denny Williams and Fremont Davis, both now flying in the O Class. These boys will not receive their ace citations until after the tournament closes on Friday afternoon, when trophies will be awarded. The ace winning the greatest number of points in all events will be declared District of Columbia champion for 1930.

Embrey Indicted With Davis, Beck

The District grand jury yesterday returned an indictment charging Paul C. Embrey, Carl Benjamin Davis and Morris C. Beck with robbery in connection with the recent hold-up of a runner of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank. At the same time the grand jury charged Davis in an indictment with robbing the collector of the Lord Baltimore Filling Station.

Embrey, Davis and Beck are alleged to have forced Gilbert E. Hyatt, jr., the bank runner, into their automobile last August 1 and to have compelled him to accompany them to Rock Creek Park where he was left after being robbed of approximately $5,000.

Davis is accused of having held up Benjamin F. Burch, the filling station collector, on July 13. The indictment sets out that the alleged robbery occured at 133 Pennsylvania avenue northwest and that he made off with $2,116.92.

THREE ARE INJURED BY OXYGEN BLAST IN TAKOMA PARK

Force Shatters Windows of Several Residences in That Vicinity.

TANK CLEARS HOUSE TO HIT 200 FEET AWAY

Explosions Are Caused When Torch Flame Ignites Leaking Gas.

Explosions of gas tanks at Sixth and Butternut streets northwest, Takoma Park, caused slight injuries to three persons and shattered windows in the vicinity early yesterday.

William Parks, 35 years old, an employe of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., was working with an oxyacetylene torch when the flame ignited acetylene gas which leaked from a tank.

A terrific explosion occurred, sending fragments of the tank in all directions. Residents then heard a second explosion caused by a tank of oxygen, one of ten stored on a truck with the acetylene tank. The oxygen tank was lifted high in the air, cleared a dwelling, and landed 200 feet away.

Burned About Face.

Mr. Parks said that he was working about 10 feet away from the truck when a sheet of flame enveloped the tanks. Parks was burned about the face.

Others injured were George T. Shannon, 55 years old, of 604 Butternut street, and Mrs. Mamie Story, 50 years old, of 6914 Sixth street. Mrs. Story was treated for shock. Mr. Shannon was slightly cut on the ear by a fragment of the tank.

Acting Fire Marshal C. G. Achstetter, who was deputized by Fire Chief George W. Watson to make an investigation; reported to his superior late yesterday that the explosion was caused by leakage from a defective valve in the acetylene tank.

Safety Valve Fails.

Heat from the acetylene fire caused an expansion of oxygen in the tank and an explosion, he said. Examination by Acting Fire Marshall Achstetter showed that the safety valves on all other tanks operated when affected by the heat which resulted in all the oxygen being released.

On the tank which blew up he found the safety valve failed to operate, resulting in the explosion.

Tank Strikes Wall.

Mr. Shannon was injured when he tried to remove an automobile owned by his brother, Dr. William A. Shannon, from behind the truck, where the tank was stored. Mr. Shannon and his brother were caught by the second explosion.

Mrs. Story was in her home when the first explosion occurred. Plaster fell upon her.

The house most seriously damaged was that of F. B. Stein, at 6907 Sixth street. All the windows in his home were broken. Instead of smashing inward they shattered to the outer side. Fire Chief Watson expressed the belief that the explosion created a vacuum, causing air pressure inside the house to break the windows.

The oxygen tank which exploded was found later in front of a garage in the rear of the Stein home. In landing it struck a retaining wall in front of the garage.

Man Swindled of $55 By Old Envelope Game

The old envelope game was worked again yesterday. Ben Williams, of 1520 Third street northwest, was the victim to the tune of $55. Williams was standing at Tenth and D streets northwest. He saw a man pick up an envelope. The finder said there was money in it.

Williams went to the bank and withdrew $55. This he gave to the finder as security. He was told to wait near Center Market for his newfound friends to appear. He did. He waited three hours. Then he thought there must be something wrong. He told Patrolman J. Stanley Davis, of the First Precinct, about it. Police are investigating.
